Dora Menacing St. Augustine; Tides on Rise

Old City In Path Of Storm

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Dora, thrashing slowly toward the Florida coast, knocked out telephone service at Marineland today with 81-mile-an-hour gusts and sent gales whistling through the quaint streets of St. Augustine.

Six-foot tides crashed into the beach at Marineland, a tourist spot noted for its collection of living sea creatures, as the giant tropical storm lashed the Atlantic.

This 400-year-old city of 15,000, oldest in the nation, lay in the path of the storm. Dora, slowed down to an eight-mile-an-hour travel, was centered 100 miles east-southeast of the city and moving toward the northwest.

Highest winds were estimated to have dropped from 125 to 115 miles an hour.

Hurricane warnings were displayed from Vero Beach, Fla., to Brunswick, Ga., and gale warnings with a hurricane watch were extended northward to Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Eastern Air Lines canceled its flight today from Philadelphia to Jacksonville, Daytona Beach and Melbourne, Fla. The flight was terminated at Washington.

Thirty miles north of St. Augustine, the city of Jacksonville braced for what could be the first head-on blow by a hurricane in its history. Highest wind ever recorded in this city of 250,000 was 86 miles an hour in gusts in 1944.

A five-foot tide topped by crashing waves rolled into the beach along the ocean side of a narrow peninsula just across Matanzas Bay from St. Augustine.

Another hurricane, Ethel, was "stacked up" in the Atlantic, like an airliner over a crowded airport, apparently waiting for Dora to land before making her own move.

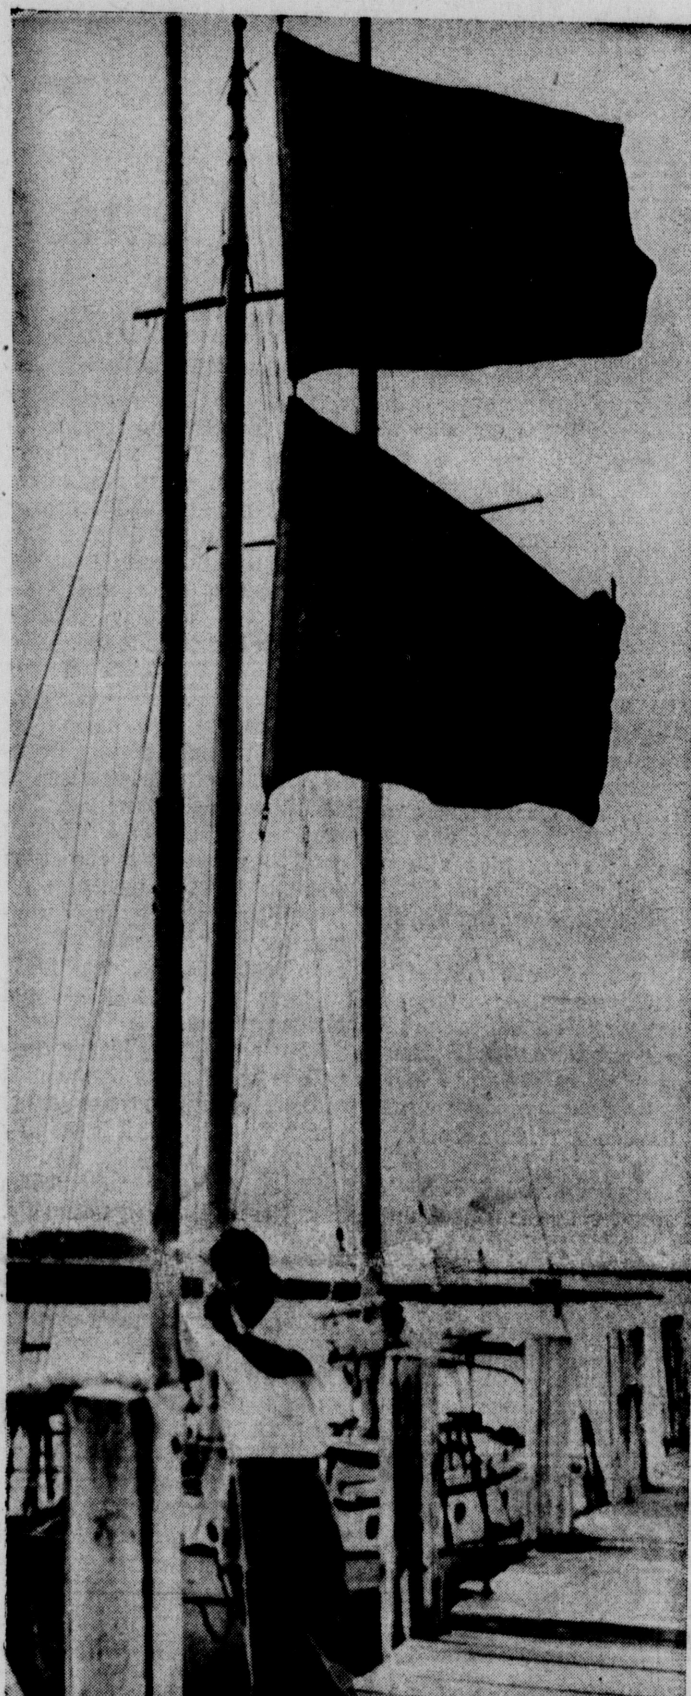

Ethel, with winds of 80 miles an hour, has remained almost stationary for several hours 350 miles south-southeast of Bermuda and almost due east of Dora.

The St. Augustine peninsula was almost entirely evacuated by its some 3,000 residents late Tuesday and early this morning, many leaving via National Guard trucks and public school buses.

"There will always be some people who will refuse to move," said city Civil Defense Director Fred Lillis. "All we can do is let them stay."

The Weather Bureau said tides up to 10 feet were running ahead of the massive hurricane in a small area north of its eye.

Hurricane and gale winds raged over 200,000 square miles of the Atlantic — an area 50,000 square miles larger than — See 'Dora,' Pg. 14

WARNINGS ARE UP — Capt. George Bass raises hurricane warnings at Jacksonville Beach, Fla., as Hurricane Dora began her drive across Florida's mid-section today, bringing high tides and winds up to 75 miles an hour. Worse was expected to develop during the evening hours today.

Chrysler, UAW Agree On Three-Year Pact

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union reached agreement today on a new three-year contract just minutes short of a scheduled 10 a.m. (EST) strike deadline for 74,000 company hourly rated employees.

UAW President Walter Reuther termed the contract agreement "the most historic agreement in the history of the American labor movement."

Reuther told newsmen the settlement included a pension plan calling for up to $400 a month payment in benefits at the age of 60 years for workers with 30 years service.

As the countdown entered its final hours, some sources had indicated chances were good for a settlement before a crippling walkout hit Chrysler's 40 plants in 12 states.

A news blackout imposed jointly by both sides had prevailed since Saturday.

Around the nation, more than half of 106 UAW bargaining units reported settlement of local at the plant grievances, and there were no reports of unusual absenteeism on the morning shift or of early wildcat walkouts.

Reuther said the agreement added two new paid holidays for each worker: Good Friday and the birthday of each employee. The auto company previously granted six full holidays and two half days.

He said the UAW had achieved an historic pension agreement which under certain conditions would give a worker 60 years old with 30 years service a $400-a-month pension. The agreement also included an increase in current pensions for those already retired. Reuther estimated the over-all economic package at 15 cents more than the offer which Chrysler made to the UAW on Aug. 17.

That offer originally was evaluated by the UAW at 39 cents an hour.

The UAW leader said his International Executive Board will meet tonight to chart its course of action at Ford and General Motors.

Chrysler Vice President-Management John D. Leary expressed satisfaction with the settlement. He said, "We are glad Chrysler will now be able to have the stability it needs to continue uninterrupted production."

Strike placards were prepared several days in advance at union locals for distribution to pickets who were to be posted at plant gates the minute the three-year contract expired.

When the UAW pinpointed Chrysler as its No. 1 strike target, it agreed to extend the current contract nine days beyond its original Aug. 31 expiration date.

Democrats Lead State In New Registrations

Democrats in Pennsylvania appear to have registered more new voters than Republicans as the statewide registration drive enters its last days and have come close to doing so even in traditionally Republican Warren County.

Since May 4, the first day to register following the primary election in April, the Democrats have added 301 new names to the rolls compared to 305 for the Republicans.

The figures, however, did little to affect the two-to-one proportion in favor of the Republicans.

There are, as of last night, 6,619 Democrats and 12,856 Republicans registered in the county, according to Mrs. Ardella Pearson, registrar. Non-partisan, Prohibitionist, Socialist and Liberal registrations bring the county total to 19,848, an increase of 487 over the tally for the primary election.

A check of most major counties showed that in some areas Democrats have increased a registration-edge they usually held. In other areas where Republicans are traditionally dominant, Democrats have either reversed the trend by pulling ahead or matching GOP registrations.

As of Nov. 5, 1963, Democrats in Pennsylvania numbered 2,739,416, compared to 2,656,403 Republicans. In 1962 there were 2,896,099 Democrats and 2,700,164 Republicans.

In the 1960 presidential election, there were 2,805,202 Democrats and 2,700,164 Republicans.

In the 1960 presidential election, there were 2,805,202 Democrats and 2,802,237 Republicans.

Democrats have made large gains in the state's most populous counties, Philadelphia and Allegheny (Pittsburgh).

In Philadelphia, Democrats, from May 4 to Sept. 5, held a three to one edge over Republicans in new registrants, compared to the figures for a year ago. As of last Saturday new Democratic registrations in Philadelphia unofficially totaled 91,174, while Republicans gathered 28,755 new voters. In the registration period before last year's mayoral election, Democrats had picked up 57,226 to 28,724 for Republicans.

Registrations end Sept. 15. There were 591,989 Democrats eligible to vote in the mayoral election, compared to 369,626 Republicans.

In Allegheny County, the registration trend has been heavily — See 'Democrats,' Pg. 14

LBJ Calls Top Aides To Discuss Viet Nam

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson summoned his top military and diplomatic advisers to a White House conference today to consider new moves the United States might make to strengthen the anti-Communist war effort in strife-torn South Viet Nam.

Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, who returned from Saigon Monday, has already held two days of discussions with State and Defense department leaders on the South Vietnamese crisis.

The White House meeting was called for mid-morning with Taylor, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara as principal participants.

Taylor held a private discussion with Johnson Tuesday night, presumably to lay the groundwork for today's session.

Informants said the consensus developed so far in the policy re-examination occasioned by Taylor's return to Washington is that the situation in South Viet Nam continues to be precarious due to the prolonged government crisis.

The crisis began in August and has brought several changes in top South Vietnamese government personnel. In the U.S. view, Premier Nguyen Khanh continues to provide the best hope for bringing order out of the political chaos in the country.

Taylor and top Washington officials are reported to feel that the highest priority in U.S. policy must still be assigned to the task of encouraging South Vietnamese leaders to create political stability and to concentrate their major military efforts in South Viet Nam itself.

It is also reported on excellent authority that Taylor is deeply concerned about the problem of the flow of supplies and reinforcements of trained Communist Viet Cong personnel from Red North Viet Nam into the south through the jungles of southeastern Laos.

The jungle trails led through the staging area in the vicinity of the Lao town of Tchepone, which is about 25 miles from the Lao-Vietnamese border.

Taylor is understood to have told officials here that the U.S. government should consider making air strikes against the Communist concentration points around Tchepone as one means of interdicting the assistance to the Viet Cong of North Viet Nam.

In reports from Saigon, Taylor's position has been represented as one of a desire to broaden the war against the Reds. References to broadening the war ordinarily also embrace the idea of making attacks directly on military centers in North Viet Nam.

Informants here said Taylor has not urged broadening the war. Persons most familiar with — See 'LBJ Calls,' Pg. 14

Dear Abby . . .

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago I went to a wedding reception. After the gifts had been opened, the bride passed her shoe around to be filled with money. I had never seen anything like it before. Is that the custom nowadays? It seems to me if you take a gift, that should be enough. The people I have asked said they had never heard of such a thing either, and I wonder if you or any of your readers have. Thank you.

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: I have never heard of this "custom" either. Next they'll be passing the GROOM'S shoe around. The bigger the foot the greater the loot.

DEAR ABBY: First of all, these names are fictitious. My son, John, married Jane, a lovely quiet girl who worked to help John finish college. They have been married three years. Jane has a friend, who is pretty, unmarried and vivacious. Well, I think Linda goes to John and Jane's apartment a little too often for everyone's good. She has stayed with them on weekends and he says, (She sleeps on the pull-down bed in the living room.) When Jane's mother suddenly became ill last month she flew to be with her in another state. Linda then moved into Jane's apartment to "keep house" for John. (In a 3 room apt.) I am not inferring that there was anything wrong, but it looked bad. I've already heard some talk about them. Even though my son is bright and has always been a good boy, I don't know how strong he is against temptation. Jane is not the jealous or suspicious type, but I think someone should tell her not to be so trusting. Should I?

USE ANY NAME BUT MINE

DEAR USE: Your son is the one you should talk to. If he's "bright" he will quickly see the light. And if he's "good" he will want to avoid the appearance of evil. And if something IS going on, he'll know he isn't fooling anyone.

DEAR ABBY: That paragraph out of your book, DEAR TEENAGER, telling girls exactly what to say to boys who ask them to "prove their love" was wonderful advice. I could have used it four years ago.

I was in love with a boy I would have done anything for. And I did. Everything you listed happened to me. I committed an immoral act. I threw away my self-respect. I lost my reputation, and I did get in trouble.

If young girls would only listen to your advice daily, they could save themselves and their parents a lot of heartaches.

Humphrey To Fight Farm Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has decided to pit vice presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey against GOP presidential candidate Barry Goldwater in a traditional two-party clash on farm policy.

Johnson has assigned the Minnesota senator to present the Democratic viewpoint on farm problems at the annual National Plowing Contest near Fargo, N.D., Sept. 19.

After some indecision over his campaign schedule, Goldwater has told sponsors of the event he will be on hand. He also has agreed to speak at the National Corn Picking Contest in Sioux Falls, S.D., Oct. 16. There is no word whether Johnson or Humphrey will appear for the Democrats.

The plowing contest, held in a different state each year, traditionally has attracted presidential candidates by offering a large audience for the airing of their views. Sponsors expect a crowd of 50,000 to 100,000 farmers and their families Sept. 19.

Johnson is reported to have decided that as a Midwesterner familiar with recent agricultural legislation Humphrey was well equipped to state the administration's position.

Whether his decision indicates a pattern of turning over much of the work-horse campaigning to his second man remains unclear. It seems certain that Humphrey will be seen much oftener in the Midwest than the President.

Humphrey has said he is going to campaign in the South, where his strong stand on civil rights has not been popular.

He got an invitation Tuesday from Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who gained national attention on the other side of the Civil Rights fence in the Little Rock controversy, to make two speeches in Arkansas Sept. 17 and 18.

Marine Commandant Urges Students To Get As Much Education As Possible in Schools

In a letter being sent to high school students, Marine Corps Commandant Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr. is stressing the importance of education in today's modern world.

ALL HIGH school students, he says, face the same important question — how best can I prepare for my future in the light of both my legal military obligation and my patriotic desire to give service to my country?

"No matter what field you may be considering for your future," he continues, "my answer to the question would remain the same. That answer would be: stay in school."

"LET NOTHING prevent you from finishing high school, and if at all possible, go on to college. Statistics prove your opportunities for the future are based to a great extent on your education."

"The U. S. Office of Education tells us job opportunities for high school graduates increased 40 per cent over the last 10 years. Other statistics show that high school graduates receive nearly $40,000 more lifetime income than do those who failed to finish high school. Opportunities for college graduates are even greater. Education is indeed an investment in your future."

"EDUCATION increases opportunity in the Marine Corps too. Promotions are closely related to high school completion. A graduate, for example, has a 200 per cent better likelihood of becoming a Marine corporal than a high school dropout. The missile age Marine Corps requires men who are ready — in body, in mind and in spirit — to master complex skills and to become enthusiastic and confident leaders.

"The local Marine Corps representative in your community will be happy to talk with you, and your parents if they wish, about opportunities available to educated young men in the United States Marine Corps."

Frantz, Donick, Mazzu Named To Chest Drive Leader Posts

James H. Frantz, Andrew J. Donick and James V. Mazzu have accepted key positions for the 1964 Community Chest campaign, according to general chairman James C. Torrance.

Frantz, secretary and general counsel of the United Refining Co., will chairmen the Professional Division solicitation in the drive for $104,400.

Donick, manager of the Warren office of the Bureau of Employment Security, will head which covers governmental and school employees.

Mazzu, proprietor of James Jewelers, is chairman of the Business Division which solicits the retail merchants in the community.

These three divisions have been assigned a quota of $21,422 as their part in reaching the goal. This is 20.5 percent of the total amount needed to support the ten local health, welfare and youth organizations of Warren County which benefit from the Chest.

All three of the chairmen have been active in Community Chest affairs over a period of years. Frantz and Donick have served as directors and officers of the organization; Mazzu has served on the Campaign Cabinet as well as chairman of the Business Division.

These leaders are now enrolling their team members in preparation for the annual campaign. The Business Division kicks off on Sept. 28; Professional and Public Service hold a kickoff on Oct. 5.

Pine Grove Supervisors Will Discuss Proposals

RUSSELL — The Pine Grove Township Board of Supervisors will continue discussion of several proposals at its regular meeting next Tuesday night, September 15.

DURING the last meeting of the board, conducted by Virgil Williams, members heard Edmund Baird, North Warren engineer, explain details of the sidewalk requested by area residents for the protection of school students walking along the former Route 62.

The proposed walk would extend along the old road from the Keystone Gas Station, corner of Main and Liberty Sts., to meet the one laid last year from the road to the new elementary school building.

IT WAS reported Willard Weatherby has moved the hedge on his property where the walk would extend when its construction is started in the near future.

Willis Phillips, local building contractor, was on hand to outline his plans for a proposed housing development and ask that supervisors approve the roadway. The development, as he explained it, will be located between the old highway and the present Route 62.

BENEFITS that accrue from the drilling of an additional water well to supplement the local system were explained by a representative of the Moody Well Co. of Meadville, but members took no action in the matter.

Leo Sadler, road supervisor, reported all township highways in satisfactory condition.

TODAY in WASHINGTON

— By The Associated Press —

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders hope to bring up President Johnson's proposal for Social Security health care for a crucial vote next Wednesday.

The vote would be on whether to instruct House members of a Senate-House conference to back the Senate-passed health care proposal. Unless the House conferees are so instructed, most members believe the conference would reject the health care plan.

The health care plan — an amendment to a bill raising Social Security benefits — was passed 49 to 44 by the Senate last week. There has never been a test vote on it in the entire House.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs.

Lyndon B. Johnson has announced a new White House garden will be dedicated to Mrs. John F. Kennedy. It had been planned but not completed before President Kennedy's assassination last Nov. 22.

An announcement through Mrs. Johnson's press office Tuesday said that the garden would be completed in mid-October.

The cost of about $10,000 is being borne by nongovernmental funds of the White House Historical Association, which finances such projects from the sale of the White House guidebook.

The Subdivision Law

WHEN IS A LAW not a law? When it's not enforced.

That seems to be the case of the Warren County Subdivision Ordinance, passed into law in 1961.

For some reason or other, the county has chosen to ignore some 54 violators of that ordinance. This was brought out by Commissioner Blain M. Mead when he presented his motion last week to abolish the Warren County Planning Commission.

Mr. Mead pointed out in his statement that for the past year he has been contacting David Swanson, trying to find out what the commission planned to do about violators, and that in that time, he's received no answer.

Mead said that Swanson told him that the commission can't get an attorney because "no one wants to handle it."

We find this very curious. Why doesn't anyone want to handle it? Indeed, why doesn't Mr. Swanson handle it? He is an attorney.

With Mr. Mead we can only agree that the planning commission is lax in not looking after this ordinance, which is the foundation of all future planning in the county.

And there is another curious sidelight on the ordinance:

From The Times-Mirror of Feb. 4, 1963, we have the following item:

"Increasing requests by private developers to have the Warren County Planning Commission staff design and lay out their properties has promoted the commission to make a policy change.

"No official action was taken, but most commissioners agreed that subdivision layouts should be done by private concerns.

"Richard McCarthy, vice chairman, who brought the subject up, said it was the commission's policy since it was established to offer this service. However, he continued, the initial phase is over and the potential developers should contact private concerns.

"Design and layout of an area, he said, is just like any other service. People have to pay for legal advice...."

In other words, if you got in on the ground floor with your subdivision, you got it set up for nothing. But now....

Well, we have 54 violators in the county, some of them representing pretty big concerns. Nothing is being done.

Once more we are prompted to ask, just what did we get for our $84,685.10?

Nothin', pa., nothin'.....

The Polio Clinics

WARREN COUNTY'S Medical Society is to be congratulated on reviving the Sabin oral polio clinics here.

The purpose of these clinics is two-fold. First, it offers to those who received all three types of Sabin vaccine some years ago a chance to re-insure themselves against polio by taking booster shots. For those who did not receive any protection at those original clinics, it means an opportunity to get protection now.

The fact that Pennsylvania has scored a phenomenal record in polio prevention this year is due largely to the activities of groups like the Warren County Medical Society; to men like the chairman, Dr. Ross E. Bryan, and to dedicate people like those who make up the staff of volunteers who man the clinics themselves.

We take this opportunity to remind our readers that the clinics are scheduled for Sept. 13 and 20 and Nov. 15 and 22 in Warren, Russell, Columbus, Sugar Grove, Sheffield and Tidoute. All the dates are Sundays, which means that everyone should be able to attend without difficulty.

It is in the best interests of everyone to take advantage of these clinics and to protect themselves and their families—particularly the youngsters—against this dread ailment.

Polio is all but licked. This is a mopping-up operation—but it's every bit as important as the "big war" against the disease was over the years.

Chief Executive, he needs a suitable house in which to entertain heads of state and other foreign visitors.

The Johnson proposal comes from a man who spent three years in the Vice Presidency and who realizes the need.

Actually, the need is long-standing and bipartisan. During the Eisenhower years Richard M. Nixon several times pointed to his difficulty in reciprocating the official hospitality he had received on overseas trips.

The problem is especially severe when the Vice President has no private income, as is the case with Sen. Hubert Humphrey and Rep. William Miller, the two Vice Presidential nominees this year.

It seems clear that Congress should act promptly on the President's proposal.

The other day a citizen lamented, "I haven't a nickel to my name!" That sounds like someone in dire poverty. Actually the speaker had plenty of money—that is, everything but small change. His plight was symptomatic of the coin shortage.

The American Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association says this shortage, strongly felt by retailers and banks, is starting to affect toll facilities. If neither motorists nor toll collectors can make the necessary change, there will be some long hot lines on the road. And when the American driver is delayed in his desire to go places, revolution is near at hand.

This is forcing the turnpikes to strange devices. In New Jersey they took up a Monday morning collection from the local churches, giving bills in return for small coins. In Pennsylvania a lack of nickels and dimes inspired officials to go to highway restaurants and buy tip coins from the waitresses.

Many factors contribute to the shortage. Action is afoot to alleviate it; the mints are working at top capacity, and there is even a plan to discourage hoarding by dating all coins 1964 for the next two or three years. There is thus hope that the shortage will end within a reasonable time. Meanwhile, citizens will continue to wait on occasion, "I haven't a nickel to my name!"

Will Labor Back Johnson?

WASHINGTON—The AFL-CIO endorsement of President Johnson last week was the most unanimous political action ever taken by organized labor.

President George Meany emphasized this as he introduced board members to the President, pointing out that Jim Sufbridge of the Retail Clerks, Maurice Hutcheson of the Carpenters, and Lee Minton of the Glass Bottle Blowers, all Republicans, had joined in the unanimous endorsement.

"I might also tell you, Mr. President," said Meany, "that Lee Minton seconded the motion to endorse you, offered by David McDonald of the Steelworkers. That's about as unanimous as you can get."

Meany then read one paragraph of labor's pro-Johnson statement, declaring: "When tragedy thrust upon him the duties of President, Lyndon Johnson undertook, with unsurpassed vigor, the task of fulfilling the program launched by John F. Kennedy. The legislative achievements of President Johnson, in ten months in office, are the greatest since the first Roosevelt administration."

Meany stopped suddenly and remarked: "The next sentence, Mr. President, sums up the whole reason for the enthusiastic support you are going to receive from labor."

The AFL-CIO leader continued to read: "The unflagging concern of Lyndon Johnson for the poor and deprived has, in all truth, aroused the conscience of all Americans."

Johnson seemed at a loss for words in expressing his gratitude.

But the big question in the minds of the AFL-CIO leaders, as they met in Washington, was whether they could deliver their rank-and-file votes to LBJ.

As one union president observed privately: "Our members have moved to the suburbs and acquired social status. They don't attend the meetings and have forgotten the great advances labor union got for them."

Many union members have even forgotten that Labor Day was established when the unions were weak and workingmen were fighting an uphill battle to achieve higher wages and better working conditions.

Today Labor Day is just another holiday, the last chance of the summer to get to the mountains and the beaches.

In the higher leadership of labor, the AFL-CIO organization does a terrific job for all the nation. It was men like Andy Biemiller, former Congressman from Wisconsin, now a labor lobbyist, and Nelson Cruikshank who had much to do with passage of the Medicare Bill last week.

But this isn't known by rank-and-file members. This was the reason for private skepticism among the leaders last week that they could deliver all their members for Johnson. Times, they said, were too good.

One of the strangest conglomerations of Congressmen lined up behind Jimmy Hoffa in a closed door session of the House Judiciary Committee to vote an investigation of Attorney General Bobby Kennedy and his prosecution of Hoffa, who has been kicked out of the AFL-CIO.

The lineup is supposed to be secret, but this column can reveal the strange mixture of Republicans and Democrats who either loved Hoffa or hated Bobby Kennedy.

There was nothing strange, however, about the fact that Rep. Mike Feighan of Cleveland sparked the move to defend Hoffa. Feighan is the Democrat from Cleveland who has taken so many junks abroad at the taxpayers' expense that he faced serious opposition in Ohio's May primaries. Ron Mottl, another Democrat, almost defeated him. What saved Feighan's political neck, however, was the fact that the Teamsters threw everything they had in the way of personnel and considerable money into Feighan's district. He barely squeaked through.

Today Feighan is grateful. He helped to organize the proposed Hoffa-Probe-of-Bobby Kennedy resolution which hitherto had been blocked inside the House Judiciary Committee.

Front runner for the resolution is Robert Libonati of Illinois, former attorney for Al Capone and now retiring from Congress. Libonati and Feighan were the only two Northern Democrats who voted for Hoffa. But five Southern Democrats, strongly anti-labor in the past, voted for Hoffa. They were E. L. Forrester, Ga., William Tuck, Va., Robert Ashmore, S. C., John Dowdy, Tex., and Basil Whitener, N. C.

Eleven Republicans also voted to investigate Bobby Kennedy's two Hoffa convictions. Most of these Republicans in the past have voted anti-labor. They were Bill Miller of New York, now a candidate for Vice President, Richard Poff, Va., William Cramer, Fla., Arch Moore, W. Va., George Meader, Mich., John Lindsay, N. Y., Garner Shriver, Kans., Clark MacGregor, Minn., Charles Mathias, Md., James Bromwell, Iowa, Carleton King, N. Y.

Their motive in getting an investigation of the Justice Department was largely to embarrass Bobby Kennedy while he runs for the Senate in New York State.

Twelve Democrats voted against Hoffa and against any probe of the Justice Department at this time. Some of them felt that the Justice Department may have been highhanded in going after Hoffa. This column has so reported in the past. But since the matter is now before the Court of Appeals they wanted to delay any Congressional interference.

Two Democrats, Frank Chelf, Ky., and Harold Donohue, Mass., were absent, along with one Republican, Patrick Martin of California. They can tip the balance for or against a probe of Bobby Kennedy and of Jimmy Hoffa's convictions when the resolution comes up for a final vote on Wednesday.

Coming Struggle for Power?

I tried this Johnson-Humphrey theory of the future on some of the more ardent Kennedyites at Atlantic City and, later, in New York. They would not buy it. They pointed to the role of accident in political affairs, arguing, quite correctly, that nothing can be plotted in advance over a sixteen-year curve. Death can intervene; the world abroad can erupt; taxes can provoke political overthrows. And the law of averages, which has gone against the Kennedys so severely ever since young Joe Kennedy's death in wartime, could suddenly veer the other way. Teddy Kennedy's recovery from an airplane accident could prove to be symbolic.

The hope of the Kennedyites conjures up a vision of a mighty struggle for control of the Democratic Party. The hope is contingent on Democratic success this November at the polls all down the line. If Pierre Salinger wins his senatorial fight in California and if Bobby himself wins in New York, it could mean ultimate Kennedy control of the two most powerful states in the union. Teddy Kennedy's power in Massachusetts must inevitably spill over into neighboring states like New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Connecticut. Sargent Shriver, a Kennedy-in-law, could always quit his Washington job as anti-poverty crusade czar and go home to run for important office in Illinois. With New York, California, Illinois, and New England in their pockets, the Kennedyites would be in a position to capitalize on the first break of fate between now and that hypothetical 1980.

The stories of feuding between Johnsonites and Kennedyites have always been papery over. But the geological fault lines are there to be seen by anybody with half an eye. It is incontestable that Lyndon Johnson edged Bobby out of Washington. It is equally incontestable that Bob Wagner, as Johnson's man, does not control the New York Democracy as long as such diverse characters as Harlem's Adam Clayton Powell, boss Charles Buckley of the Bronx, Brooklyn's Stanley Steingut, and Buffalo's Peter Crotty are around. A local power base is patently within Bobby's grasp. And, with brother-in-law Steve Smith's acumen guiding Kennedy affairs, who is to say that LBJ has banished Bobby from party leadership forever?

Jane Morgan And Her Life

BY JANE MORGAN

Every little girl dreams of one day finding her Prince, being carried off on a white horse and living like a queen ever after. Well, the dream actually came true for me. So what if the Prince turned out to be a middle-aged nightclub impresario and his white horse was a Paris-bound airliner? I've lived like a queen ever since.

I had always wanted to be a singer, and the Juilliard School of Music was the logical place for me to begin training my voice for the concert stage. I come from a family of serious musicians; my father was the first cellist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra for 25 years and my mother was a concert singer and pianist. I planned to become a "serious" lyric soprano, maybe someday making my mark at the Metropolitan Opera.

Juilliard is not a free school and even with my family helping out, it was necessary for me to take a job to cover the expense of living in New York. So I found myself on the stage of one of New York's fashionable supper clubs. I didn't realize it then, but fate had stepped in and I was about to meet "The Prince." Bernard Hilda was his name and after hearing me sing for my supper several nights in a row, he came backstage after the show and offered me a contract to appear at the Club des Champs Elysees in Paris. I was on my way in a matter of days.

I arrived in Paris knowing no French, having no permanent place to live and not knowing whether I'd be there for weeks or years. And I was an "overnight sensation."

It was then that I began to learn what it's like to be treated like a queen. In America, popular entertainers expect mobs of screaming fans at the stage door, flash notes in the morning mail, and press coverage of the most ordinary events in their lives. In Europe, entertainers are treated like royalty. People go out of their way to be kind, courteous and considerate. Only in Italy does the press get out of hand.

The morning after I opened at the Club des Champs Elysees, I couldn't get past the door of my dressing room. The room was filled to bursting with flowers from people I had never met.

When I was offered a long-term contract by the club, I knew I'd need an apartment, and suddenly people I'd met only casually after the show were offering to go apartment-hunting for me. They were high officials of the French government, debutantes, dowagers—all going out of their way to be kind to me. They found an apartment for me—an entire floor of what had once been a small palace. It was furnished with antiques, there were floor to ceiling aquariums in every room, hand-carved paneling, built-in bars—it was fantastic, and the rent was very low.

There was only one small problem—no heat. There were coal stoves in some of the rooms, but as luck would have it, there was a coal strike going on at the time. That winter, instead of sending flowers, my admirers sent whatever few lumps of coal they could find for me.

Keeping Well . . .

BLISTERS are the nemesis of vacationers, sightseers and athletes. These lesions are minor annoyances unless they become infected. The American people were saddened, in 1924, when Calvin Coolidge's son died from blood poisoning as a result of an infected blister on the foot. This would never happen today.

Blisters are caused by pressure or friction. Fluid collects between the inner and outer layers of the skin. The area hurts enough to cause limping or interfere with the grip on a tennis racket, golf club, hammer, or oar. Continued friction usually punctures the blister and this intensifies pain.

Most of us know that infection need not be feared so long as the blister remains intact. This is why it should not be opened with a pin or needle to drain off the fluid. The small opening allows the watery material to escape but it closes within a few hours and locks in any bacteria that may have entered.

A better plan is to wash the lesion with soap and water, sterilize with alcohol, and cut away the top of the blister. This should be done only when the blister is large and probably will break anyway. Now we have an open sore that must be covered with an adequate dressing.

Prevention is preferable. Footgear should fit properly. Do not walk long distances in new shoes. Athletes usually wear sweat socks, often with light weight cotton socks next to the skin. Special sports gloves are helpful for the golfer and tennis player. Ordinarily gloves will prevent blisters from forming on the hand of the fisherman who expects to sit all day in a boat, casting.

It also is advisable, when going away, to take along a few adhesive bandages and apply one as soon as an irritated area begins to burn. This reduces additional friction and the chance of developing a blister.

REPLY—No, and not from berries either. It is caused by a vitamin B1 (thiamine) deficiency. Victims usually are Orientals who subsist almost exclusively on a polished rice diet. REPLY—Yes. They help make the exact diagnosis, and are useful in watching the progress of the condition and determining the extent of damage to the heart muscle.

Mrs. G. S. writes: Is it true that easterners have a shorter life span than those in the rest of the country? Someone said it is because of eating sea food.

REPLY—No, and sea food does not shorten life. In fact, at one time, it had the advantage of preventing goiter.

L. M. writes: A friend uses a washing machine detergent as a shampoo. Is this harmful to her hair?

REPLY—No, but it might dry or irritate the scalp.

A. G. K. writes: Is drooling after new dentures caused by poor dentistry?

REPLY—No. The nuisance will pass after adjusting to the dentures.

PEOPLE, ISSUES and POLITICS

HARRISBURG — This has been a year when only a few of the Governors really tried, and none of them wound up amounting to a hill of political beans at the national convention.

Pennsylvania's Gov. William Scranton waged a futile last-minute campaign against the man who became the Republican Presidential nominee, Sen. Barry Goldwater. New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller had waged a much longer but just as futile campaign before Scranton. Michigan's Gov. George Romney never even became a serious darkhorse.

In the Democratic Party it has been even tougher going for the Governors. Only California's Gov. Edmund Brown was mentioned as a possible running mate for President Johnson, and this only in passing. Georgia's Gov. Carl Sanders was nominated for VP when the roll call started with Alabama, but this was nothing more than a well rehearsed piece of convention stage business to give Sanders a chance to withdraw and wave the flag of the Old Confederacy in behalf of the Johnson-Humphrey ticket for the benefit of a nationwide TV audience.

Brown arrived at Atlantic City when the VP sweepstakes still was open and signed to a newspaperman that President Johnson "seems to know people in the Senate better than he does the Governors."

Has the era passed when Governors were the favorite contenders for the Presidential-Vice Presidential nominations? Adlai Stevenson was the last incumbent Governor to make his way onto a national ticket. That was 12 years ago. In 1960 the top candidates were U. S. senators or former senators. This year the emphasis again is on the congressional backgrounds of the major contenders.

The governorship may have become the electric chair of American politics.

Pennsylvania's Sen. Joseph Clark is one of many on the political scene who thinks this is so. A one-time mayor of one of America's major cities, Philadelphia's Clark knows the trials and tribulations of executive leadership from first-hand. He sums up the troubles of the Governors this way:

"The difficulty is that Governors are confronted with the constantly increasing social and economic needs of their states. There is the cry for better welfare systems, for more secondary highways, for higher expenditures for education. This puts an awful strain on tax resources which have already been depleted by the Federal Government's stealing of most of them. So they've had to go in and levy unpopular excise taxes, sales taxes, regressive taxes, wage taxes. They've had trouble with their Legislatures. Usually reluctantly, the Legislatures have gone along, blaming it on the Governor. Then the Governor tries to run for reelection or run for the Senate, and the people take it out on him. And that's the end of a promising political career."

And there was the Tennessee senatorial primary where a civil rights supporter, Rep. Ross Bass, beat out Gov. Frank Clement. "Here again," Lawrence said, "you had a Governor with a tax problem on his hands."

All this looms up to haunt Governor Scranton in any survey of his political future. The Democrats already are belting personal testimony that Clark isn't overstating the case.

One former Pennsylvania Governor, David Lawrence, has argued all along that one of the big reasons for the surprising showing in the Presidential primaries by Alabama Gov. George Wallace wasn't the "white backlash" but the simple fact that "the people were mad about taxes." He points at a post-election poll of a Milwaukee working man's district, where Wallace made a strong showing, which shows that a tax backlash and not civil rights was the reason for the anti vote. Ditto in some Maryland districts. "That guy Wallace picked them good. He picked the spots," Lawrence said.

There was the Tennessee senatorial primary where a civil rights supporter, Rep. Ross Bass, beat out Gov. Frank Clement. "Here again," Lawrence said, "you had a Governor with a tax problem on his hands."

All this looms up to haunt Governor Scranton in any survey of his political future. The Democrats already are belting him for the 5 per cent sales tax, just as they blasted John Fine before him and just as the Republicans took after George Leader and Lawrence for jacking up the sales tax.

But a lot more than this now is involved in the picking of national candidates. The issue of foreign policy has come to dominate our Presidential-Vice Presidential campaigns—and here is one place where Governors usually are out in the cold.

During his short-lived but high-powered campaign against Goldwater, Scranton made much of the apprentice time in public service he had in the State Department as a special aide to former Secretary of State Christian Herter. Rockefeller is another Governor with a more elaborate State Department chapter in his career.

A new ladder of political success has evolved.

"Don't forget that the Senate is full of ex-Governors," Clark points out. "Hardly anybody goes from the Senate back to be a Governor. The general pitch is that you come from the House to the Senate or you come from the Governorship to the Senate, and now you look hopefully—if that's the way your ambition lies—to going from the Senate to the Vice Presidency or Presidency."

Before the deadline for withdrawal of candidates passed, a story made the rounds in Harrisburg that Sen. Hugh Scott would step out as a candidate for reelection because of his deep troubles with the Goldwater-Miller ticket, and Scranton would take his place as the GOP nominee in a maneuver to carry Pennsylvania for the Republicans and set up Scranton in a stronger position for 1968.

Nothing ever came of it, of course, but the story adds to the reality of politics just the same: If you want to climb the political ladder today, you're a lot better off if you're a United States Senator instead of a Governor.

This is not the least of Mr. Scranton's problems as he faces an uncertain political future. But it's not his problem alone. He shares it with all the other Governors.

The Pyramids and Eternity . . .

CAIRO, Egypt — It was hot. The cab driver opened the little windows wide to shovel some air over my family. He crossed the cocoa-colored Nile at the El Tahrir Bridge and moved west, passing tiny donkeys laden with produce and fat farmers in striped gowns. It was shimmering hot but it was a good day to see the Pyramids.

The Nile flows north. Dhows with huge sails fought the current slowly, like stately swans. Outside of El Dukka, there were stands of corn and big billboard asking Egyptians to fly "Aeroflot" for the USSR. The farms became thick and green and, nine miles out of downtown Cairo, the great Sahara desert began.

Guides in flowing white robes and mahogany faces lifted Kathleen aboard a camel. She was frightened. The little face with the china-blue eyes tried bravely for a moment, surrendered, and cracked into tears. Karen was bigger and more confident. She had the same guide Gayle had nine years ago, and the same silly aplomb.

Mother got aboard a camel and, as it rocked off its knees to its feet, she shrieked and the camel went off at a trot, with her hanging onto the beast like a lame-duck Congressman onto his job. We were in the shadows of the great Giza pyramids.

There are three of them, the tombs of Cheops, Chephren and Mykerinos.

They were built about 5,000 years ago and they stand as colossal monuments to the greatest vanity of all time. In effect, each pyramid is a cemetery headstone. They are made of 2,300,000 stones, each weighing about two-and-a-half tons. Each pyramid has two rooms inside, one for the body of the pharaoh, the other for his queen.

The ancient Egyptians believed in a hybrid immortality. Life after death depended upon preserving the body from decay. To prevent decomposition, they mummified the body, anointing it with unguents first, then wrapping it tight in long strips of cloth. They could not believe that the spirit could exist without the body. This led to the further credo that the dead body would need food and drink. So chapels were built near the tomb for mourners, and they brought food, flowers, drink, perfumes, even medicines.

In the chapel, a fake door was built, and the offerings laid before it. The door was called "Ka" and, when the mourners left, the spirit of the dead man came through it and partook of his needs. The Egyptians of 50 centuries ago also believed that the dead body should never be disturbed. That is why it was kept in a sealed vault, away from "Ka."

There was an enormous weakness in these religious beliefs. Only the very rich could afford it. The poor were buried under the desert sands with no stone vault, no "Ka." The pharaohs were not satisfied to be rich oppressors; they wanted tombs bigger than all other men so that, besides attaining immortality, they would also be worshipped as gods.

Most of them spent a great part of their lives building their own tombs. Chephren, for example, had 100,000 laborers and stone-cutters working on his tomb when the artisans found a large natural spur of rock under the sand. The pharaoh studied it, and decided it was shaped like a crouching lion. So he ordered the workers to chisel it into the shape of a huge lion, with the head of a pharaoh.

Chephren wanted it to look like him. It is called The Sphinx. Cheops used 100,000 workmen to build his tomb, and they worked only three months each year, during the flood stage of the Nile. The huge stones were floated as close to the desert as possible, then trundled over an artificial road graded at 2 per cent. As each course of stone was laid in place, the sandy road was lengthened so that, in time, it reached near the top of the pyramids without becoming any steeper than 2 per cent.

The artisans also had huge wooden cradles. A huge stone could be placed in it and, with about 50 men on each side, the stone could be rocked upward, from the bottom of the pyramid to the top, in stages. Each stone measures 40 cubic feet. The work required 20 years.

The Great Pyramid of Cheops measures 746 feet on each side, a shrinkage of 10 feet in 5,000 years. It has also sunk about 30 feet into the sand. Ten years ago, I stood in the 34-foot granite room in which Cheops' body once lay. Before he died, he had two small airshafts, on an incline of 30 degrees, built outward from his chamber.

Long ago, archeologists discovered the true entrance to the tombs as opposed to the "Ka." They removed the bodies of the pharaohs, and their jewels too. The pyramids are empty.

It was a hot day. Karen and Kathleen squinted at the three pyramids. Kathleen grinned. "I'm not afraid of this camel any more," she said. I nodded. I was thinking of the action of tremendous heat on the stones of the pyramids all day, and the chill of night which cracks the big blocks. Someday, those big tombstones will be small grains of sand . . .

Thumbnail History of Aging

Dr. William A. Bean studied the growth of his own thumb nails for more than 20 years and his records indicate that with advancing age his thumb nails growth slowed down.

Since 1942 the research scientist, on the first day of each month, filed a groove in the nail at its base. Slowly, but steadily, as his thumb nail grew this groove moved outward toward the tip of his nail.

When he began his study in 1942, at the age of 33, it took about 117 days for his new nail to grow from the grooved base to the outer edge. This regular and patterned growth-time slowly changed until it took the nail from 122 to 128 days to grow groove to tip.

In the past three years Dr. Bean's thumb growth-rate has slowed down until the nail takes approximately 133 days to grow. In the past, by cutting a groove at the base of his nail each month, he would have four grooves extending from base to tip. Now there are five grooves, and his age is 53.

Throughout the 20 years the scientist's nail grew at about the same rate in the summer as in the winter, which is in direct contradiction to the idea that nails grow faster in warm weather. Nevertheless, Dr. Bean admits that he spent much of his time during the twenty years of the winter seasons in well-heated buildings. During the summer he has traveled to many foreign countries, changed his diet during travel and this climate and diet change had no effect on the growth of his thumb nail. At different times during the 20 years he has had periods of heavy physical exercises, and periods of complete relaxation. The nail grew at the same rate.

He found that in 1950 there was a sudden slowing of thumb nail growth which produced an almost temporary stoppage of growth. It happened when he contracted a bad case of mumps. Because of this he is now investigating the effects of certain diseases on the growth of nails.

Dr. Bean stated, "This objective evidence of a slowing in the process of nail growth has occurred at a time when I was not conscious of the general encroachment of old age in terms of the activities in which I engage."

He plays tennis in the spring, summer and fall, and squash in the winters. His travelling is done in all seasons. His diet changes from month to month while he travels. In his studies he has tried to take into account every facet of his changing environment, activity and health. Except for the case of mumps which slowed down his thumb nail growth, he finds no difference in the rate of growth—except that of the slowing down with advancing age.

Although Dr. Bean's study is the first precise study of nail growth over a long period of time, other scientists throughout the world have studied the same phenomena, and other factors of nail growth for shorter periods. Several investigators have used tiny drills to cut through the thickness of nails, and with ultra-sensitive instruments measured the rate of thickness-growth. Robert Boyle made studies on nail growth in 1884, which in no way were definitive, but did start people thinking about the potential of the field.

IN 1889 Dr. E. Blake in London published the results of his studies in a book titled: "On the Study of the Hand for Indication of Local and General Diseases." Blake called attention to the fact that there was a great individual variation not only in different people but that the nail growth was influenced by many external and internal conditions. On the whole, Blake's—See 'Thumbnail', Pg. 14

The Turncoat: A Case History

WASHINGTON—We have a friend who has four children. He is an ardent Democrat and is working hard for President Johnson's election. Our friend's wife and three of his children are also for Goldwater. But his nine-year-old daughter happens to be for Goldwater.

"At first," he told us, "I thought it was amusing. But I don't think it's very funny anymore. How would you like it if you came home after a hard day's work and instead of your daughter kissing you she shouted, 'Hooray for Goldwater!'"

"Why is she doing it?" we asked him.

"I can't figure it out. She's a good child, we've always lavished love and affection on her, and she doesn't get punished more than any other kid. But somewhere along the way we must have failed."

"Has she told you her reasons for supporting Goldwater?"

"No. Everytime I ask her, she just giggles and shouts, 'Hooray for Goldwater!' Later she's been wearing Goldwater buttons on her dress and somebody in the neighborhood has been slipping her Goldwater stickers which she pastes up around the house, and it's driving me nuts. Look, I want my kid to grow up and think for herself, but she doesn't have to start with Goldwater."

"Have you tried to discuss the issues with her?"

"Of course I have. I told her that if Goldwater was elected he would make all children go to school on Saturdays and he would do away with summer vacations. He also was advocating an hour's extra homework each night and was supporting daily tests in arithmetic."

"Didn't that scare her?"

"It did for a couple of days, but then the Goldwater people got to her and told her President Johnson was going to cut all children's allowances, close down candy stores, and abolish bubble gum."

"What was your response to that?"

"I told her Goldwater was going to put a tax on all bicycles, doll houses, and doll clothes. I warned her if Goldwater was elected she would have to take care of her baby sister every afternoon, and he would forbid anyone under 21 from watching television."

"I should think that would have done it."

"It would have except that she went back to the Goldwater neighbors and they told her President Johnson was against the Three Stooges, sandpiles, and Disneyland."

"I didn't think the campaign was going to become this rough," we said.

"I wouldn't mind if it was just her, but she's enlisted three of her friends in the campaign. How would you like to be a registered Democrat and have a Goldwater cell in your basement?"

"What does your wife have to say about this?"

"She thinks it's part of the parent backlash. My wife believes we should pretend to be for Goldwater and then our daughter would be for Johnson."

"Why don't you do it?"

"I'm afraid of losing the other three kids. They might think we really are for Goldwater."

"You do have a problem."

"The worst part of it is I've lost all perspective. When she's bad I don't know if I'm punishing her for her behavior or because she's for Goldwater. It makes me feel guilty as hell."

"Why don't you tell her the Beatles are going to vote for Johnson?"

"Say," he shouted happily, "I never thought of that!"

Those who claim to have spotted the monster say it weighs about 500 pounds, has eyes that shine in the dark, has enough hair on its body to make a king-size throw rug and leaves a footprint six inches wide. Gives you a rough idea what it's like—very rough.

Only 16 per cent of American men shave every day, a survey reports. Which news makes Milt, the sterling printer, wonder if there isn't a little bit of Beatnik in the most fastidious of us!

Surveyist Norman Brill of the University of California says only about 5 per cent of marriages are truly happy. The rest are people whose bond is as good as their word.

Committee Finds Treasures in Old Beatty Books

Warren Association of College Women has promised thousands of books of all types and covering a wide assortment of subjects will be available at its Sidewalk Festival Days booth on Friday and Saturday.

The display is to be arranged on the lawn at the front of the Newell Press building on Third Ave. west, all money realized from the sale to be used to supplement the club's Scholarship Fund.

A SPOKESMAN for the group stated this year's sale is being anticipated with particular enthusiasm because of the many valuable old books made available through the generosity of David Beatty.

Many novels, textbooks and children's volumes will be offered for about 25 cents each. However, Mrs. John Robertson and her committee indicate they are especially excited about some of the treasures found in the Beatty collection.

MRS. DAVID POTTER and Mrs. John Saylor are currently pricing these books, which include old medical texts, foreign language books, and beautiful old editions of many classics.

Complete sets of the works of Voltaire, Victor Hugo, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Thomas Paine and The Historical Writings of John Fiske are among volumes to be offered for sale starting at 9 a.m. Friday.

SOME first editions will be available, also. Included in this group will be such books as Fletcher's "Gustavus Adolphus," published in a limited first edition in 1890; Oliver Goldsmith's "The Deserted Village" and "The Vicar of Wakefield;" Howells' "Letters Home;" Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper;" and Robert W. Service's "The Spell of the Yukon."

Other valuable books in the lot include a Canadian printing in 1904 of "Poems of the Romantic Period" and the second volume of the works of Virgil, printed in London in 1730.

A MAJOR portion of the books given by Mr. Beatty date back about a century, the committee said. Browsing a bit while working on the project, members have come up with some examples of the philosophy of that period.

One quote is this bit of sagacious wisdom offered in "Reflections of a Bachelor": You can never make a fat woman believe she is really fat until she gets stuck in the bathtub" and "Coal bills piled on top of Christmas bills get a man in good condition for observing Lent."

In one of the volumes of the International Science Library, Thomas Huxley comments: "No human being can arbitrarily dominate over another without grievous damage to his own nature . . . and, if this be true, no slavery can be abolished without a double emancipation, and the master will benefit by freedom more than the freed-man."

Lady Barber Shears Genius

By LORETTA COUREAS
NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — If you can't find Trudy Johnson in her usual spot behind her barber chair, you can probably find her cruising at a fast clip in the sport car she helped her husband build.

The fact that this petite grandmother is a lady barber is even less surprising than the fact that she can probably talk circles around the best mechanic in town.

"And she's one gal who knows what she's talking about," her husband claims.

The two have spent 39 years of marital bliss motorcycling from coast to coast, barbering side by side and tinkering in their workshop to build a "strictly one-of-its-kind" sport car.

Andrew Talmadge Johnson and his blue-eyed wife chatter with their barbershop customers about that new motorcycle with a Chevrolet engine, about racing in general and about the super cyclone engine which replaced the flat-head Mercury plant in their sport car.

"I can't talk so good with women," Trudy admits. "They don't understand the things I talk about. And I'm not interested in their latest operation or the baby's colic."

"She don't cut ladies' hair either," Johnson says. "She says they're too much trouble. Men are easier to get along with."

Trudy Johnson started barbering about 18 years ago when one of her two daughters begged to help dad ply his trade.

"She helped him by lathering the customers for their shaves until she learned of the trade," Trudy remembers. When his business began to boom, Trudy got into the act and the three formed an assembly line, dad cutting, daughter trimming and shaving and Trudy shampooing.

Mrs. Johnson attributes their happy marriage to this companionship which has existed all through their life together.

"Everything we've ever done has been together. We used to fly together. But I didn't get a kick out of flying. So we took up motorcycling." Seventeen cycles and thousands of miles later (on tours from Canada to Florida) they switched to building their dream car.

"It took us eight years," she says. "And we hand-made everything in the 'playhouse' out there," pointing to the workshop behind their home.

The finished product, which Trudy dubbed "Cheetah," has since been winning top trophies in custom auto shows all over the country. The biggest trophy, one which stands almost as high as Trudy (She couldn't be a minute over five feet tall), came from the 1964 auto show at the Norfolk Arena.

Tippi Says: Blondes Must Beware

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In Tippi Hedren's beauty, like Princess Grace's, there is a serenity which she maintains with exercise and rest.

"My pet peeve is blondes with black eyebrows," she says. "It is like saying, I've made my hair blonde, but I'm going to leave my face brunette." Tippi was wearing her own blonde hair in an upsweep. She doesn't wear make-up, except for mascara that fringes her green eyes. She thinks blondes must be particularly careful not to overdo.

Exercise, sleep and rest are more important to the vital look she considers real beauty than anything else, she says. Blondes can't be droopy any more than they can be too vivacious looking, calling too much attention to themselves.

How's Your Jaw?

"I swim, ride horseback and I'm a devotee of isometric exercises," explains Tippi.

"I've developed muscles so I can lift my child by grasping her with two hands and lifting her straight up in the air," she says of Melanie, age 7. "Once you learn tension exercises you can do them anywhere, lying down, sitting, standing. It just takes seconds to do one exercise."

(An example of an isometric exercise that creates momentary tensing of muscles is this one that strengthens the chest-to-jaw muscle:

(Clench teeth, pull corners of mouth down and out with strength. Put your hand up to your throat as this is done and feel the straining cords.)

She learned to ride horseback when she played in "Marnie," her second movie made for Alfred Hitchcock, who discovered her while she was doing television commercials as a New York model. Now she'd like to have stables so she and Melanie can ride together.

Beauty Sleep

"But there should be one day every week when a woman does nothing at all... And 20 minutes or half hour of rest each day is more beneficial than any beauty treatment because you can sleep better at night not absolutely exhausted."

Women who protest that they have no time to rest often spend the same number of minutes trying to erase weariness with makeup at the end of the day, she points out.

There should be time for many things in a woman's life, to keep a sparkle in her eye, she says. "For example, I've always

SCHOOL FASHIONS — Two bright new additions to the school wardrobe are being featured in Montgomery Ward stores this fall. At the left, a nautical touch adds charm to this young junior blouse and jumper. The gray tweed with bright red trim has its own arnel crepe blouse. Shoulder bags are also back in fashion for school girls. At right, this fashion-new, three piece set is a real classroom brightener. The all-around wool blend pleated skirt is topped by a sleeveless turtle neck shell and cardigan in orlon with bold contrasting stripes. It's available in girls' sizes 7 to 14.

New Technique Used for Piano Pupils

DEKALB, Ill. — Can you imagine grade-school children learning college-level music theory, then going on to compose their own music?

This is just one of the wonders that takes place in Miss Lynore Dagg's amazing new electronic piano class in North Hollywood, Calif. — where children are seen and not heard!

Each student wears earphones that direct the music from his piano to his ears. Using an electronic communication center, Miss Dagg can tune in each pupil without disturbing the others. Through a microphone, she gives personal attention to each youngster, providing praise where it is due and commenting on improved technique. She may also demonstrate on her piano for the student's benefit.

For group playing, the students' headsets are unplugged. The Wurliizer electronic pianos then direct music from a speaker for all to hear. These piano orchestra sessions open a new world of music to the youngsters; they provide a spirit of fun while the mysteries of harmony, melody and rhythm are explored.

Gone are the days of solitary instruction from Miss Dagg's classroom and hundreds of others across the country. The dreary scales and fingering exercises that had the piano teacher bending anxiously over her students have been all but abolished from these sessions, too.

Piano parties replace the old formal recital, with its stiffness and attendant reluctance of youngsters. Pupils no longer practice the same piece for three months to prepare a ten-minute recital for critical grown-ups.

Instead they learn music theory — a subject usually reserved for university level — in the first year. They transpose from one key to another, recognize the harmonic relationships of chords to melody and are equally at home on the black or white keys.

But does this system get youngsters to play the piano? In just eight weeks, Miss Dagg's average pupil is playing and sight-reading 18 selections on his Wurliizer electronic piano. Some of her top pupils have mastered 22 at the end of the first eight-week period.

"Desire for group approval and the pride of accomplishment encourage effort in youngsters 5 to 12 years of age," says Miss Dagg. "The stimulation of attending a weekly piano class eliminates the practice problem. The youngsters might disappoint the teacher, but they never would disappoint one another."

Miss Dagg varies her weekly class sessions by tape recording individual and ensemble presentation on a closed electronic circuit. The tape recorder is plugged into the output on the back of the Wurliizer electronic pianos and records musical passages from each youngster's fingertips. At the close of the session, the tape is played back and the class discusses the passages and techniques.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department spokesman Robert McCloskey said Tuesday that "we regret the action taken by the British" in extending long-term credit to the Soviet Union.

McCloskey said the U.S. position against long-term credits to Communist countries is unchanged.

The British granted the Soviet Union credit for 15 years in signing a contract Monday for the sale of a fiber plant valued at about $85 million.

Amish Leaders Seek Support On SS Relief

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 50 Amish leaders from Pennsylvania headed here today to press for House support of a Senate-approved amendment which would exempt the state's Older Order Amish from the Social Security program.

In a statement placed in the Congressional Record Tuesday, Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., called on the House to support the amendment, which was attached by the Senate to a bill which would increase Social Security benefits.

"I feel strongly that our government must not ride roughshod over the religious rights of a minority," said Schweiker. "I urge my colleagues to join the fight to retain this important amendment in the bill."

The Social Security bill which contains the Amish exemption is expected to go to a special conference committee next week to iron out differences in the House and Senate versions.

IT'S SERIOUS BUSINESS — It may be a musical comedy that concerns these three people, but it isn't all laughs. Choosing a cast is a painstaking and important first step in getting production under way. Ross Bryan, director of L'il Abner, discusses a point with Jim Hill and Ann Thompson at try-outs last night at the Warren Players' Club. Another try-out session is scheduled for tonight at 7:30. —Timesphoto by Rath

Tryouts Being Continued Tonight For Players' Club 'L'il Abner'

Tryouts for L'il Abner will be held again tonight at the Players' clubrooms on the third floor of the K of C building at 7:30. The musical comedy will be presented on Beatty Junior High School stage Oct. 23-24.

Since there are 39 parts to be filled, Ross Bryan, director, hopes for a large turnout tonight to complete casting as soon as possible. The musical directors, June and Howard Andersen, say there is a need for eight tenors, plus many other singing parts, solo and chorus. "Jubilation T. Corpone" is probably the best known song from the musical, along with "Namely You."

"Progress is the Root of All Evil" is one of the many humorous numbers. Penny Beach is in charge of the choreography. There are several dancing groups—one made up of boys, and one of girls only—besides other parts that demand solo or duo performances. And for those who prefer straight acting, there are speaking parts that require no musical talent. According to Frank Chiodo, publicity director, there is need for several secretaries, three doctors, and a government man, none of whom sing or dance.

Tickets for Players' productions will be on sale during Side-walk Festival Days this week at the Players' booth at the corner of Second Ave. and Liberty St.

Seating charts will be on hand in order to make seat selection easier, said Chiodo. Tickets may also be obtained by phoning Harold Johnson, ticket chairman, at 723-5791, or by mailing a check to the Warren Players, Box 563, Warren. Enclosure of a self-addressed stamped envelope facilitates return, said Chiodo.

Goldwater Pledges To End Democrats Spending Spree

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, in a determined drive to pick up the Western states he sees as his presidential base, promises that if elected he will halt what he calls the "wild spending spree" by the Democrats.

"What will your choice be?" Goldwater asked a roaring crowd in Los Angeles' three-tiered baseball stadium. "More power for Washington? Less power for your home state and your town? More money for wasteful government? Less money for productive, individual uses?"

"No. Our choice is progress through freedom!" Goldwater had his largest crowd Tuesday night — the scoreboard said 53,120 were in the ball park that can seat 56,000 — and he got a rousing welcome, so rousing he couldn't speak until the message was flashed in big lights in leftfield: "Let's hear Barry."

This is friendly country for a Republican presidential candidate. In 1960 Richard M. Nixon carried California, Oregon and Washington. Goldwater hopes to win them, too.

His schedule today takes in all three states, with stops in Sacramento, Calif., and Klamath Falls, Ore., before spending the night in Seattle, Wash.

California is the big prize.

It has 40 big electoral votes, and it has special appeal for Goldwater. It was here, in the presidential primaries, that he knocked off Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and took a major step toward winning the GOP nomination.

Goldwater's speech, in the stadium where the Dodgers and Angels play their home games, was billed as his California kickoff, and his fans paid $1 apiece to sit in on a show that ran for almost three hours.

Bands played. Movie and television personalities were introduced. Goldwater rode all the way around the stadium in his convertible, while the crowd applauded, before going to the speaker's platform over second base. Hundreds of yellow and gold balloons were released.

The cheers rolled in when Goldwater said:

"I will, as one of my first actions in the White House, ask the Congress to enact a regular and considered program of tax reduction. I will also ask that Congress stop the wild spending spree begun by this administration."

$4.5 Million Goal for GOP State Warchest

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pennsylvania Republicans will begin a $4.5 million fund raising campaign next Monday with the help of Senate minority leader Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill.

Frank C. P. McGinn, chairman of the GOP Finance Committee of Pennsylvania, said Tuesday Dirksen was selected to speak at the luncheon starting the campaign because he would appeal both to supporters of the GOP presidential candidate, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, and to moderates of the party.

McGinn said more than 300 prominent contributors and fund-raisers have been invited to the Monday luncheon.

McGinn also said that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Scranton of Pennsylvania will be the main speakers at the finance committee's annual $100 a plate dinner Oct. 29 in Harrisburg.

Goldwater contended it is possible to cut income taxes five per cent a year for five years and, with a growing economy, still keep the budget in balance.

"If spending is held in check — and, believe me, a Republican administration will hold it in check — we can cut taxes, and still balance revenue against spending," he said.

His plan, Goldwater insisted, is a "properly adjusted tax reduction," not at all like the one proposed by the late President Kennedy, which Goldwater voted against.

Goldwater's explanation: "I opposed that tax cut and would do so again under the same circumstances. That reckless cut was not intended as a return to responsible fiscal policy designed to put a brake on endless growth of spending by the centralized bureaucracy."

Goldwater threw in a couple of asides that weren't in his prepared text.

Of President Johnson, he said: "He's trying to sweep Vietnam under the rug and he can't get it there for Bobby Baker and Billy Sol Estes."

At one point he asked: "Why are so many here tonight? You and all Americans know that something is wrong. You know it's going to take a good house-cleaning to get it straight."

He was interrupted by applause 57 times during his 39-minute speech.

MID OCEAN SETS DATES

TUCKERS TOWN, Bermuda (AP)—The Mid Ocean Club will hold its annual men's invitation golf tournament Nov. 16-20. Last year's winner was Dick Stimets of Oyster Harbor, Mass. He beat George Wardman of the home club in the final.

In the senior division Charles Trunz, of Sands Point, N. Y., won over Irving Bergeron of Brockton, Mass.

India Prime Minister Now in Deep Trouble

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Deserted by some members of his own party, Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri is in deep political trouble just three months after assuming the leadership of India.

The nation's stability will depend on how well this shy, unassuming man fights back against Communist-led opponents of his government and how well he handles a food crisis affecting millions.

Trouble has been mounting rapidly since Shastri succeeded the late Prime Minister Nehru June 9 and then in August fought back from a disabling heart ailment.

Shastri's prestige and position within his own ruling Congress party took its heaviest blow yet Tuesday.

The party's state government in the southern Communist bastion of Kerala collapsed on a no-confidence motion the Reds rammed through the legislature. In New Delhi, a united front of Communists, Socialists and right-wing Hindus stepped up their attack on Shastri's food policies. Parliament will vote later this week on a motion of no confidence against the prime minister.

The Congress party's big majority assures the defeat of the motion, but Congress members themselves were voicing some of the harshest criticism hurled at Shastri.

Congress member A.C. Guha of West Bengal declared the nation's reserves of food grains are gone and the food situation is the worst since the great Bengal famine killed millions in 1943.

The prime minister's opponents in the party hierarchy are grumbling that he is not tough enough to control the situation. This was the main argument of right-winger Morarji Desai when he contested the selection of Shastri as Nehru's successor.

Desai, known for his toughness, is again being mentioned as the man to take over.

Food demonstrations continue throughout India. Rival groups of Kashmiri nationalists brawled in the streets of Srinagar.

Much of northern India is covered by the worst floods in 40 years.

Sources close to Shastri say he is planning stern action.

By the end of the week he is expected to dissolve the Kerala legislature and set up a state government controlled by New Delhi. The communists are expected to retaliate with demonstrations.

An AP Special Report

New Jazz Singer Wowing Baltimore

By KATHIE DIBELL

BALTIMORE (AP) — An exciting singer named Ethel Ennis is hoping to rival the late Billie Holiday as Baltimore's leading contribution to the world of jazz.

Miss Ennis until recently was relatively unknown, except to a few connoisseurs of American jazz, and her loyal local following.

Then in July, Miss Ennis appeared at the Newport Jazz Festival with such stars as Louis Armstrong and Dave Brubeck.

One critic said she was "the individual star of the festival," and "a singer of extraordinary polish and finesse."

After 14 years on the small club circuit, the 31-year-old Negro vocalist was discovered.

Almost immediately she was booked at outstanding clubs in Chicago and New York. She was asked to appear on television shows. New record albums were cut for release later this year.

Various described as a second Ella Fitzgerald, Sarah Vaughn or Peggy Lee, Miss Ennis tags herself a "progressive pop singer."

"I hate to sing any song exactly as it's written. That's progressive. But I don't want to sing too far out so that people don't understand it," she said recently at the West Baltimore club where she has worked off and on for the past nine years.

She says she never consciously copied any singer's style.

Although jazz is her forte, Miss Ennis also likes what she calls the better rock 'n roll numbers. "The ones that used to be called rhythm and blues, but since the whites are doing it, we call it rock 'n roll."

"I prefer the ballads, the torchy things, the ones every day people feel."

The daughter of a Baltimore baker, Miss Ennis started her musical career with piano lessons when she was 7.

"I hated it. I always wanted to be a ballerina. But my grandparents said I'd be dancing with the devil. Now I'm singing with him," she said.

Her first professional jobs were as a pianist.

"I never thought of singing in a club, only in church. Then one night they asked me to sing. I was well received and decided to hang up a shingle as a singer."

She is no stranger to the big bands. In 1958, Miss Ennis toured Europe with Benny Goodman's orchestra. The tour included appearances at the Brussels World's Fair.

She loved Europe, but she didn't like the big band.

"I'm not a projectionist. I like the small rooms," she said.

Casual sultry, she picks her way softly through a song.

She seems to ignore the crowd during blues numbers. Her head is bowed. Her eyes are partly closed.

Offstage, she is a vivacious, warm person — intensely ambitious, but not overtly aggressive.

Her husband, Jacques E. Leeds, is a lawyer, the first Negro assistant attorney general in Maryland. They have no children.

SHIRLEY E. KAPP

Shirley E. Kapp, 91, of 108 N. Irvine St., died at 12:20 a.m. today, Sept. 9, 1964, in Warren General Hospital, where he had been a patient since August 29. The elderly East Side resident was hospitalized with a broken hip after he was found in the woods on his Tiona oil lease. Officials who conducted the investigation said he had gone to the lease on Thursday and was injured, apparently, when the starting wheel on lease equipment kicked back and knocked him to the ground. It was estimated he had lain in the woods more than 50 hours before he was found by neighbors on Saturday.

Shirley Edward Kapp was born on Dec. 27, 1872, in Clarion County, where his parents were among pioneer settlers. A prominent oil producer in Warren and Bradford fields, he moved to Warren from Rew, McKean County, in 1922.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Charles (Leora V.) Painter, Marienville; Mrs. Charles (Ruth I.) McCool, Clarendon; Mrs. Robert (Lidia S.) Horton, Bradford; Mrs. Paul (Marie K.) Kahle, Duke Center; nine grandchildren, 24 great-grandchildren and six great-great-grandchildren; a brother, Nelson Kapp, Oil City. His wife, Mary B. Kapp, died on March 2, 1958, and a sister, Hazel Salisbury, in 1934.

The Rev. John Z. Andree, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene, will conduct the private funeral service at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. Burial will follow in McKean Memorial Park in Lafayette.

JOHN F. SMITH

The funeral of John Frederick Smith of 323 1/2 Prospect St., who died in Warren General Hospital on Sept. 5, 1964, was conducted at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Bradford by the Rev. Harold G. Powell, pastor of First Church of God in Warren.

Fellow employees of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., serving as bearers for the burial in McKean Memorial Park in Lafayette were William Bowers, Fred Streich, George Knapp, Edward Linder, Albert Tantelo and Floyd Landers.

ELIZABETH M. ECKLUND

Mrs. Elizabeth Marie Ecklund, 86, of 107 Miller Ave., Lakeview, N. Y., died Sunday evening, Sept. 6, 1964, in WCA Hospital in Jamestown.

She was the widow of John A. Ecklund and was known to many in the local area through her association with the Covenant Mission Meadows Camp on Chautauqua Lake. She had served on the kitchen staff there for several summers.

Mrs. Ecklund was one of the oldest members of Zion Covenant Church in Jamestown and her husband served at one time as interim pastor of that parish.

The funeral service was conducted at 1:30 p.m. today, followed by burial in Lake View Cemetery.

OSCAR F. SWANSON

Oscar Frederic Swanson Sr., 56, of Jamestown RD 4, died in Jamestown General Hospital on Sept. 5, 1964. He was the father of Mrs. John Rupczyk of Sugar Grove.

A native of Jamestown, Mr. Swanson had been employed for 30 years as director of engineering for Jamestown Automatic Vending Machine Corp.

Following the service at 3 p.m. today in Jamestown, burial will take place in Lake View Cemetery.

Mrs. Mattison was born in Youngsville on Dec. 14, 1887, the daughter of Amancel and Ida Montague Wickham. She was a member of the Frewsburg EUB Church, its Missionary Society and Weidner Bible Class, also of the Ministers' Wives Association of the EUB Erie Conference.

Democrats—

Democratic, beyond that in any of the last four presidential elections. Figures since last April showed 24,360 new Democratic registrations compared to 9,991 for the Republicans.

This margin of 2 1/2-to-1 is far above the April primary registration figures of 496,611 Democrats and 290,305 Republicans.

James Suriano, an Allegheny County registration official said that on one day "we were in 10 districts, eight of them primarily Republican areas, yet the registration was heavily Democratic."

In Montgomery County where Republicans lead by a three-to-one margin, new registrations, as of Sept. 1, were running only three-to-two in favor of the GOP.

One GOP source said the Republican registration of 9,538 is about half what it was at the same time in 1960, while the Democratic total of 6,862 is only about 1,800 behind four years ago.

Democrats also have been doing well in traditionally Republican counties such as Lancaster, Lycoming, Centre and Franklin. In Cambria County the Republican edge in new voters was halted.

In Lancaster County, Democratic gains were without precedent in that traditional Republican county.

Registered Republicans there totaled 3,723 against 3,281 Democrats. Normally, Republican registration is two and one-half times that of the Democrats.

Current unofficial party totals in the county are 54,204 Republicans and 33,924 Democrats.

Lycoming County, which normally has a two to one Republican margin, showed a virtual standoff in new registrations through August — Republicans 603 and Democrats 598. An experienced observer noting the final registration drive wasn't completed, told the Associated Press "no significant change can be read into these figures."

Another strongly Republican county where Democrats have been faring well is Centre. But neither major party chairman is ready yet to attach significance to the figures.

Democratic chairman John Gingham said of a 60-voter lead in new registrations that it is difficult to tell if this results from "a trend or as a result of hard work by the party's registration committee." The latest figures in Centre showed 633 new Democrats to 623 Republicans. Before the drive opened, Republicans led in the county by 17,568 to 11,622.

In Franklin County, where the Letterkenny Army Depot has a civilian staff of more than 6,000, Democrats held a narrow edge in new registrations, reversing a trend that has seen Republicans build a county-wide margin of 4,000.

Observers say many of these federal workers are registering this year for the first time, and are listing themselves as Democrats. There is also a belief organized labor is making progress in its efforts to roll up Democratic registrations.

Cambria County has had a hair to a Republican trend as Democrats have enrolled 1,614 voters and Republicans 1,116. The bulk of this lead was piled up in August. Until then, following the primary, Republicans had been leading in new registrations. While Democrats view this as a trend in favor of their party, Republican chairman Robert Gleason views the margin as about normal in a county where Democrats have had a 15,000 voter registration edge.

Gleason says two factors are involved: money he says is being spent by labor unions and that "a great majority of Negro voters (about nine to one) are registering as Democrats."

There are other counties where Republicans are out-registering Democrats but by margins below the normal ratio.

In Venango County since May Republicans registered 321 voters and Democrats 262. The county's registration is usually Republican by two to one.

In Chester County, Republican registrations for the primary election were nearly three times the Democratic total, 66,340 to 23,058. Since then Republicans have registered 3,119 and Democrats 2,126.

York County, normally Democratic in registrations, is continuing that way in a so far light signing-up period. For the primary there were 55,000 Democrats and 43,000 Republicans. The registrations since then have been 650 to 540 with Democrats in the lead. This county in 1960 had a Democratic registration margin of 15,000 but gave Richard Nixon a 17,000 vote edge over the late President Kennedy.

Clinton County reports 104 new Republican voters and 94 new Democrats, a slight drop in the Republican percentage margin from the April primary. The latest overall totals are Republicans 91,197 and Democrats 7,107.

In Monroe County, Democrats led Republicans 320 to 263 as of Sept. 1, figures that compare favorably with registrations in the past in the traditionally Democratic county.

In normally Democratic Berks County, registrations are following the pattern. New Democrats totaled 3,809 to 1,674 Republicans in incomplete figures.

In Lehigh County Democrats lead in registrations 2,501 to 1,254. Bucks County Democrats gained 4,145 against 3,122 for Republicans. In Northampton Democrats led 2,986 to 818.

One particular segment of the voting population is receiving particular attention — Negroes. In the larger cities a concentrated effort is being made, mainly through efforts of civil rights leaders, to get Negroes to register. Reports indicate that such drives were meeting with success.

California, the nation's third largest state.

Huge waves rolled across Matanzas Bay and crashed over St. Augustine's main thoroughfare, Bay Street, scene of most of last summer's racial disorders and site of many historical buildings.

Apparently out of danger were 5,000 persons who ignored the warnings of Civil Defense workers and chose to ride out the storm in ocean-front homes at Daytona Beach, about 50 miles south of St. Augustine.

A tide of about six feet hit the Daytona Beach peninsula early this morning, but did not damage any buildings. Police cautioned against sightseeing on the beach, however, warning that the storm danger had not passed.

Dora with hurricane and gale winds raging over an area twice the size of the state of Georgia, was centered just after daybreak 100 miles east of Daytona Beach and moving northwest toward St. Augustine.

Just 30 miles north of St. Augustine is Jacksonville, a city of 250,000 population which has not been hit by a full-sized hurricane in this century.

Top winds of about 125 miles an hour raged around the center of the storm.

Hurricane warnings were displayed from Stuart, Fla., northward to Brunswick, Ga., but the Air Force predicted that the Cape Kennedy missile base would get winds no higher than 65 m.p.h.

Gale warnings spread from Fort Myers to Apalachicola on the Florida Gulf coast, from Fort Lauderdale to Stuart on the Atlantic coast, and across giant Lake Okeechobee in the rich Everglades farming area.

The Weather Bureau said torrential rains falling around the eye of the hurricane might bring 10 inches to extreme north Florida and southeastern Georgia.

Hurricane warnings were lowered for the Tampa Bay area.

Thousands of persons from south of Cape Kennedy to Brunswick, Ga., spent the night in schools, churches and National Guard armories. They ate cold food and slept on makeshift beds. The Red Cross in Atlanta said the figure would reach 100,000.

Evacuation of low-lying areas and many island and peninsulas that dot Florida's East Coast was urged because of the fear that Dora's torrential rains and high tides would cut off access roads and wash away homes.

Mainland motels and hotels were packed with beachfront residents — many of them holding "hurricane parties."

McNamara was quoted as declaring in recent congressional testimony that the United States "will do whatever is required" to prevent Communist China from destroying South Viet Nam's independence.

In censured testimony made public by Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., McNamara said evidence supports the contention that "application of power in sufficient quantities to respond to any immediate aggression and a capability to apply power in those quantities will deter that aggression."

After referring to the Soviet backdown in the Cuban missile crisis, McNamara said in response to a question that he thought the same principle involving a show of power would apply with Red China.

Steelers Better Off Without Dial: Brown

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pittsburgh Steeler fans still are upset about the Buddy Dial trade, but quarterback Ed Brown, who threw passes to the ace receiver, isn't shedding any tears. "Everything was on Dial last year," says Brown who is entering his 11th National Football League season. "I think we'll be better off."

The off-season trade, which caused a gnashing of teeth among Steeler rooters and a raising of eyebrows among almost all football fans, sent Dial to the Dallas Cowboys for the draft rights to Scott Appleton, the All-America tackle from Texas.

Appleton signed with Houston of the American Football League.

"I actually think we'll have a more balanced passing attack than last year," Brown says. "I think (Gary) Ballman is just as good (as Dial), maybe better. Ballman is faster than Dial."

The reference to speed was in answer to how the trade would affect the Steelers' long passing game. Dial is especially adept at catching "bombs."

Brown also thinks Paul Martha is coming along. Martha, the former Pitt star who was the Steelers' first draft choice, is being counted on heavily as a pass catcher.

Despite his optimism about the Steelers' aerial game, Brown does admit they probably will do quite a bit of running this season.

"We'll have more of a running game than the other clubs in the east, except possibly the Giants," he said. The Steelers have such line slushers as John Henry Johnson, Dick Hoak, Phil King and Theron Sapp.

But none of these runners is noted as a breakaway threat and the pass will have to be the big weapon in the Steelers' arsenal.

This puts the spotlight on the presence of Brown and the absence of Dial.

Last year Brown completed 168 passes for 2,982 yards and 21 touchdowns, all club season records. Dial caught 60 passes for 1,295 yards and nine tds.

If Brown can guide the Steelers to their first Eastern Division title or even get them as close as he did last year when they only needed, but didn't get, a victory in the season's final game, he will be able to say, "I told you so."

If he has a bad year, it probably will be the fans' opinion that Ed Brown and the Steelers need a "Buddy."

Dragons Team To Beat in Section II This Season

By DAVE FAY
Times-Mirror Sports Editor

Fred Bell had been head coach here two years when he won his first Section II championship. That was 1955, and the team also went undefeated and untied.

We're not about to say that the 1964 version of the Warren Area High School Dragon football machine will go undefeated and untied this season but the chances of the Dragons winning the Section II championship are better than average.

And this is Bell's second year back in the helm after stepping down at the end of the 1956 season.

But if the Dragons are going to win the championship, they will have some very tough competition to get past, notably Meadville and always rough Corry, even though this is supposed to be a "down year" for the Beavers.

In a poll conducted by The Times-Mirror, the majority of the Section II coaches picked the Dragons to beat in the title. This can mean absolutely nothing on one hand (who didn't pick the Yankees to defeat the Dodgers in the last World Series) but, then again, must be taken into consideration when evaluating the situation.

Several reasons could be listed for the coaches picking the Dragons as the Section II champs, among them their respect for Bell as a head coach.

Last year the Dragons were considered as much of a threat as any other team but not seriously considered for the title. One of the main reasons for this feeling was the job that faced Bell, transferring the Dragons from a "T" formation unit which it had been under Ralph Veights over to a single-wing football team. Bell is a solid believer in the single-wing and the Dragons will run out of it again this year, but much more experienced at it.

Another reason for the Warren choice could be the nine returning lettermen or, better yet, the placement of the nine returning:

Four backs, three good, big experienced middle linemen and two ends. Also back with the Dragons this season are eight players who did not letter last year but all of whom are considered experienced and will be definite assets to the squad. In this grouping there are four backs, three ends and a guard. Some of these, along with the lettermen, will be starting with the Dragons this season.

Bell and Corry's Lou Hanna are held in the same respect by most coaches in the area; coaches who can always be depended upon for developing a strong team when having almost nothing to work with in the manpower department, coaches who will continuously come up with a respectable team and teams which can not be taken lightly.

BOB RICE

DICK THOMPSON

Co-Captains of the 1964 Dragons

Bell and Hanna, two very close friends, also feel this way about each other.

For this reason, when one asks Bell what he fears most about the coming season, he lists injuries first and Corry second.

"Olean will be big and tough, so will Corry," said Bell, "but we play them one at a time and Corry is first on the list."

The Dragons open Saturday on War Memorial Field against the Beavers, bent on improving their 2-3 Section II record last year and their 5-4 overall record. A large crowd is expected, hopefully as big as the 5,000 who paid to see the Dragons open at Corry last year.

Seven of the Dragons who will probably be in the starting offensive lineup will be lettermen, the other four are listed as experienced and dependable.

Two of the starters are two-year lettermen, right end Dick Thompson and right guard Bob Rice. The two are the co-captains for the season. Thompson, a senior, weighs 180 and stands 5-11. Rice, also a senior, stands 5-10 and weighs 175.

Others in the tentative offensive lineup are lettermen Tim Barner at left end, 155, 5-11, senior; letterman Mike Pastrick and left tackle, a senior and the biggest man on the team at 215 standing, an even six-feet; Al Brown, left guard, 155, 5-7 1/2, a junior; Tom King at center, a junior weighing 175 standing 6-0; letterman Tom Creola at right tackle, a senior weighing 205 pounds standing 6-0; letterman Bill Pasquino, 180-pound 5-8 senior quarterback; junior Mike Spinney at left half, 178, 5-10; right halfback Paul Johnston, a senior 170 and 6-3; and fullback Ken Wolfe, the 190-pound six-foot senior letterman.

Depending on the situation, approximately five changes will be made in the offensive lineup for a quick switch to defense. Barner, Pastrick, Thompson, Rice,

—See 'Dragons,' Pg. 17

The Outlook

If everything goes the way it looks on paper, this is about the way the Section II football race should turn out:

1. WARREN
2. Meadville
3. Oil City
4. Franklin
5. Tionesta
6. Corry

M'facturing Cops City Loop Title

Larson's HR Does It; Mascaro Lauds Tinelli

By DAVE PIRILLO
Times-Mirror Sports Writer

Something just short of pandemonium broke loose last night on John Carbon Memorial Playground as Warren Manufacturing, Cinderella team of the City Softball League championship playoffs, won the league title with a 2-1 victory over defending champs Betts Machine Shop.

Manufacturing, plagued through most of the series trying to find the handle on the ball, came back to win the title after dropping the first two games then winning three straight.

Manager Joe Mascaro, who deserves much of the credit for the victory, placed the laurels squarely on the head of pitcher Jim Tinelli. "We rode all the way on his shoulders," Mascaro said. "All the credit for our accomplishment has to belong to him."

And Mascaro was right. Tinelli hurled his team through thick and thin throughout the season and came through in top form in the series. After losing the first two games, mainly on infield errors not bad pitching, Tinelli came back with a four-hitter, a three-hitter and another four-hitter last night to sew up the title.

Hard-luck man of the series would have to be Bett's pitcher, John Berdine. Berdine hurled excellent ball throughout the series with the exception of one game. He hurled a one-hitter last night and still lost. Betts, however, let their pitcher down by failing to come through with timely hitting, sometimes not coming through at all.

Manufacturing was in trouble from the start in the series. Mascaro's infielders booted the ball in every direction, committing six errors in one contest alone. Mascaro decided it was time for a little shuffle in the infield and the results paid off in a big way. The move jelled Manufacturing into a team, lifted their morale and won the series.

However, it was a costly error by Betts which cost them the final game in the series. In the fifth inning last night, just before Bob Larson blasted one over the left field fence, a throwing error allowed a man to reach first. That man proved to be the tying run and Larson the winner.

Larson couldn't have timed his return any better. He climbed out of the sick bed to play the final game and his hit, the only one off Berdine, proved to be all that was needed.

Betts jumped right off to a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Syd Cummings laced a single to left, brother Ed moved him to second after being hit by a pitch. On an infield grounder, Larson playing third, forced Syd and threw to first for the double play. The ball sailed out into right field allowing Ed to score from second base.

After that, Tinelli and Berdine settled down to a pitchers' duel with Tinelli hurling himself out of trouble twice with clutch pitching. Tinelli's final bit of trouble came in the top of the seventh with two out and two men on, he got Berdine to pop up ending the game and the series.

Ironically, Betts outthit their opponents in four of the five games. The story of their defeat, however, could be told in the seven men they left stranded last night.

Mascaro was presented the league championship trophy by league president Tony Tomassoni, and a smiling Mascaro it was who received it.

Tomassoni also announced that the City League's softball tournament, which was slated to begin tonight, has been cancelled.

Frick Warned on Sale of Yankees to CBS, Take 'Calculated Risk' of Antitrust Suit

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP)—Commissioner Ford Frick has been advised by his attorneys that baseball would be taking a "calculated risk" of a possible antitrust suit if the American League club owners formally approve the sale of the New York Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The league club owners, with their representatives, met with President Joe Cronin and a battery of lawyers today to vote on the sale of 80 per cent of the Yankees to CBS for $11,200,000 last month.

both from people in government as well as in baseball, developed over the entry of the television and radio networks into big league ownership. Congressmen promised they would press for a closer scrutiny into baseball's exemption from antitrust laws.

List Tee Times For Ladies' Day At B'berry Hill

Two replay shots will be the feature of the day on Ladies' Day Thursday at Blueberry Hill Country Club.

Girls are reminded that the closing dinner will be held Oct. 8. Reservations must be made by Oct. 5. They may be made by calling Barb Graham, Ruth Grimaldi or Gayle Ettinger.

Owners Charles O. Finley of the Kansas City Athletics and Arthur Allyn of the Chicago White Sox, the only dissenters in a telegraphic vote of the league club owners to approve the sale, charged that such a vote was contrary to the league's constitution and demanded a formal meeting.

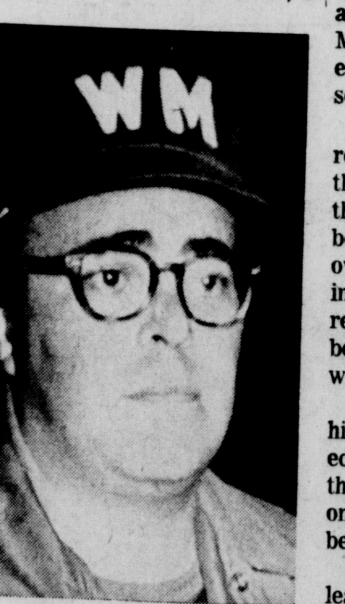

In this way they were surprisingly supported by co-owner Dan Topping of the Yankees who said he felt it was in the best interest of the league that such a meeting be held.

Another supporter was Dr. Frank Stanton, CBS president, who stated he felt it imperative that whatever action is necessary be taken to set the record straight.

Stanton maintained that the network had entered the transaction "in a spirit of good will and motivated by genuine and constructive interest in the

Tim Montgomery Is Praised by State's Engle

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Coach Rip Engle says Penn State's third football scrimmage of the current pre-season drills was "atrocious".

"I hope this is just the usual letdown after the first week—the dog days," Engle said following the scrimmage Tuesday. "If it isn't, we're in trouble."

Engle noted that the starting team fumbled the ball away four times in the first half of the scrimmage.

The veteran coach, however, had special praise for four sophomores: halfbacks Mike Irwin of Altoona and Tim Montgomery of Kane, linebacker John Runnels of Scotch Plains, N.J., and tackle Dave Rowe of Woodbury, N.J. Rowe, 6-6, 265 pounds was promoted to the second unit.

Dragons

Creola and Pasquino will stay in the lineup. They will be joined tentatively by Bruce Shattuck, a 185-pound 5-9 senior guard; Ed Buerkle, a senior end at 155 and 5-10; junior halfback Mike Fadale, 152, 5-7; junior letterman Sandy Matthews at halfback, 150, 5-9; and letterman Frank Greco, a 160-pound 5-9 junior back.

According to Bell, also seeing plenty of action this season will be junior Art Rossman and senior Jim Smith, both ends; Steve Marti and Bob Ekey, tackles; linebacker Jim Rogers, center Joe Pace and fullback Dave Eronson.

Thompson will take care of the Dragons' punting chores and Creola the conversion and field goal duties.

One of the big problems facing the Dragons, Bell feels, is their lack of a break-away type runner. "We've got good speed," he said, "but no real outstanding runner."

Despite the fact that the Dragons have no real break away threat, Bell does have depth in his backfield. Anyone of the halfbacks could be paced by any others with just about the same results. Wolfe is by far the most powerful runner on the team and has looked good in pre-season workouts. He would be hard to replace if lost, as he was part of last season with an injury.

There is also depth and good size on the line. Rice, Creola and Thompson on the right side of the line make that a good place for opponents to stay away from. The left side of the line with Barner, Patrick and Shattuck won't be much easier to get through.

Many of the coaches in the Section felt that overall this would be a good year for offense but the team that came up with the strongest defense would win the title. Almost all agreed that the winner would not be undefeated.

Here's a quick look at Dragon opponents:

CORRY: Four lettermen returning, 19 out of 23 men on varsity last year lost through graduation, most notable star back Larry Johnson. Will be using mainly underclassmen; inexperienced quarterback and line. Defense reported to be weakness point but scoring punch there.

FRANKLIN: An excellent quarterback in senior Carl Anderson and one of the best backs in the Section in Paul Law, only a sophomore. Also highly regarded are senior end Bob Harper and junior tackle Tom Keith. Of six returning let-

Dallas QB Job a Big ?

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys head into the National Football League campaign with a beefed-up defense and a question mark at quarterback.

The quarterback problem cropped up recently when Dallas' No. 1, Don Meredith, suffered a knee injury as the Cowboys were being overwhelmed by Green Bay. Since the extent of the injury is yet to be determined, and since Dallas' only quarterbacks were untested second-year man Sonny Gibbs and rookie John Jacobs from Arizona State, a move was dictated.

So, the Cowboys brought 31-year-old John Rocco out of retirement.

Although the talk is about the Cowboys' flashy new attack, with receivers Tommy McDonald and Buddy Dial the prominent additions, Coach Tom Landry thinks his club will be improved most on defense.

"We added Jim Colvin from Baltimore and Maury Youmans from the Chicago Bears," said Landry. "And we have put Mel Renfro, our best rookie, at safety."

When Meredith is fit, he will handle the quarterbacking. Gibbs, a much sought-after collegian a year ago, never got into a single game for the Cowboys in 1963. Billy Lothridge can be a quarterback in an emergency.

Dial, Frank Clarke and McDonald, the former Philadelphia star, as the wide men will be fine targets. Pettis Norman is the tight end, backed by Lee Folkins.

Landry's offensive line is not too big and must depend more on finesse than power. Tony Liscio, acquired from Green Bay last year, has moved ahead of Bob Fry at left tackle. Jim Ray Smith is the other tackle. Joe Bob Isbell and Ray Schoenke are the guards and Mike Connelly the center of a constantly shifting line. Jim Boeke, ex-Ram, and rookies Whaley Hall, Jake Kupp and Dave Manders are in the fight.

The running attack is built around Don Perkins and Amos Marsh, a rugged one-two punch when healthy. Jim Stiger and Amos Bullocks are the reserves. Landry has placed Colvin at left tackle on defense and uses Youmans as a back-up man. George Andrie and Larry Stephens are the ends and Bob Lilly the other tackle. Behind the regular line-backing crew of Chuck Howley, Jerry Tubbs and Lee Roy Jordan, the Cowboys have Dave Edwards and Harold Hays.

Cornell Green and Don Bishop play the corner positions in the deep defense with Mike Gaechter and Renfro at safety. Warren Livingston and rookie Perry Lee Dunn of Mississippi probably will be the extras.

5½ games from the top.

Since that time, they have won 12, the last five in a row, and lost just four. In the same period, the Orioles won eight of 17 while the White Sox were 9-10.

The Yankees now have two more games remaining than the Orioles—25 to 23—and are even in losses. In other words, if the Yankees win their two extra games, they would have the same record as Baltimore.

The White Sox, on the other hand, have 20 games left and have lost two more games than the other contenders, putting them at a statistical disadvantage.

None of the teams plays each other the rest of the season. That is, unless they meet in a playoff.

The Yankees nosed out Minnesota on Elston Howard's run-scoring single in the seventh inning. Roger Maris started the rally with a double and eventually reached third on a sacrifice bunt by Joe Pepitone. Howard brought him home with a single to center field.

In the National League's only game, Los Angeles nipped first-place Philadelphia 3-2 on run-scoring doubles by Jim Gilliam and John Roseboro in the first inning.

Maury Wills started the first with a single and stole second. Gilliam doubled in Wills and went to third as Willie Davis singled. Both runners then came home on Roseboro's double.

The Phillies scored a run in the second on a sacrifice fly by Gus Triandos and one in the seventh on Ruben Amaro's single following a double by Triandos.

Truax Charges Labor Ready For 'Vendetta'

HARRISBURG (AP) — Republican state chairman Craig Truax says organized labor is about to launch a "richly financed... vendetta against Republican legislators."

Truax said in a statement Tuesday that the labor campaign against the GOP lawmakers was linked with the Scranton administration's unemployment compensation bill which won passage earlier this year. The Pennsylvania AFL-CIO opposed the measure.

"To date, COPE (the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education) has picked the pockets of union members with an extra political assessment—and they took the money of Republican and independent members right along with the dollars from Democrats," Truax charged. "All of it will be spent to get Republicans."

McKean County Historical Unit Plans Kinzua, Reservation Tour

BRADFORD — Plans are being made by the McKean County Historical Society for a motorcade to the Kinzua dam and Complanter reservation.

THE TOUR, which is open to the general public as well as society members, will be taken on Sept. 19.

The motorcade will leave from the Custer City School parking lot at 10 a.m. Members and guests are requested to carry picnic lunches and to "double-up" in cars as much as possible.

C. W. LILLIBRIDGE of Smethport, president of the society, told members this will be one of the last opportunities to visit the Complanter Grant on the western bank of the Allegheny River since the gates of the dam will be closed sometime next year.

While a visit to the Complanter reservation is the chief objective of the tour, plans are being made to visit both Corydon and Kinzua villages, now nearly torn down in their entirety, and the Rimrock overlook.

THE TWO new bridges at Devil's Elbow and the long span across the Kinzua Creek will also be seen. It is not now planned to visit the dam itself because of the condition of the approaching highway from the upper river.

The autocade will be led by Lillibridge and R. P. Barnhart of Mt. Jewett. The picnic luncheon will be held in the Indian grove on the reservation.

EFFORTS are being made to George Heron, president of the Seneca Nation, give a brief noonday address to the group while they are gathered at the picnic area.

In case of rain, the excursion will be postponed until Sept. 26.

Miller Defends His Attacks On Humphrey Link to ADA

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller of New York, the Republican vice presidential candidate, says Minnesota Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's connection with Americans for Democratic Action is "an area of legitimate discussion as far as the American people are concerned."

"I shall continue to discuss it," said Miller Tuesday night in a television interview.

He fired back at Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who accused Miller Tuesday of "foul-mouthed vituperation and unrestrained misrepresentation" in Miller's continuing attacks on Humphrey, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, and the ADA.

Miller, describing the ADA as a "radical leftist organization," has cited for the past four days Humphrey's role as a founder, former chairman and vice chairman, and present member of ADA.

Miller said the ADA policies include recognition of Red China and repeal of internal security legislation.

"If he (Humphrey) is not in accord with these positions," Miller said, "he can say so."

Miller flew into Maine Tuesday night to begin a three-day campaign swing that will take him to five New England states and the Westchester County area of New York by Friday night.

Just before departing from Washington on his campaign plane, Miller issued a statement in which he said that Fulbright's comments were "only new proof that Sen. Fulbright continues to live in his own little world of old myths and unrealities."

Miller said his statements about Humphrey "dealt exclusively with his record of virtually 100 per cent agreement with the radically liberal Americans for Democratic Action. I did not deal in name-calling tactics, as did Sen. Fulbright."

The GOP nominee said that "If Sen. Fulbright and the other liberal Democrats now find their record distasteful, I would remind them that it is their record, not mine."

Fulbright also had charged that the GOP presidential candidate, Sen. Barry Goldwater, was advocating foreign policies that could lead to "nuclear conflict that would destroy the world."

Fulbright said that Goldwater's call "for an aggressive new American foreign policy was built on the assumption that communism and freedom cannot continue to exist in the same world."

Plan Afoot To Televis LBJ Dinner

HARRISBURG (AP) — Democratic state chairman Otis B. Morse says plans are under way for a statewide network to televise the address by President Johnson at a $100-a-plate party fund raising dinner here Thursday.

Morse announced the plans Tuesday without giving specific details. Earlier, he had indicated that the Democratic National Committee would not allow the speech to be televised.

Meanwhile, Thomas Boggs, an advance man for the national committee, outlined details of the president's visit.

Boggs, son of Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., said the president would fly by helicopter directly from Washington to the State Farm Show Arena where the dinner is being held.

Mr. Johnson is expected to touch down about 8 p.m., Boggs said. Originally, the President was to have landed at the Harrisburg-York State Airport and ride in a motorcade through Harrisburg.

At 8:30 p.m., President Johnson is scheduled to attend a private dinner of the President's Club, made up of Democrats who have contributed $1,000 or more for the campaign.

The major speech, between 9:30 p.m. and 10 p.m., is expected to last about 15 minutes, Morse said.

The President will return to Washington immediately after his remarks. It was not certain at this point whether he would be accompanied by the first lady.

Corry Chamber Applies Pressure on Rte. 6 Plan

CORRY — A recent meeting in which the civic affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce threw its weight in back of the proposed Corry bypass on Route 6 is apparently paying off.

WILFRED P. Madigan, district highways engineer in Franklin, said Saturday morning that "the planning department in Harrisburg is pushing me on this road, but it will be about another two weeks before it is redesigned."

The extra work on design developed when the federal government backed out of a 50-50 arrangement on the cost of the project because of the grade crossing on the Pennsylvania Railroad. Up to that time the bureau of public roads in Washington had been demanding a divided four-lane highway of which only two lanes would be paved immediately.

THIS DESIGN was completed. Later it had to be redesigned into a two-lane 24-foot wide road with 10-foot shoulders. It is this work which the Franklin office is working on now.

At a meeting last month the civic affairs committee heard Harold Resnick, a member of the five-man highway advisory commission, and Ford O'Dell, state assemblyman, say they would both actively work on behalf of the road.

SINCE THEN both have been in touch with Madigan's office and, presumably, Harrisburg since pressure is starting to emanate from the state capital to get the road built.

Madigan said Saturday the routing of the road over a portion of West Columbus Ave. and then across a field and through a stand of pines on state fish hatchery property has not been changed. Only the width of the road is being cut down since the federal government dropped its plans to participate, he explained.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Genevieve Blatt, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, says her opponent, Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., has "adopted a negative approach toward solving" problems created by automation and technological change.

Miss Blatt, state secretary of internal affairs, told 100 persons at the Engineers Club Tuesday, "my opponent evidently is not very far at heart from the Republican presidential candidate in matters of this kind."

"He has adopted a negative approach toward solving these new problems that could work grave consequences on the majority of the people if we don't act positively now."

Miss Blatt said the GOP presidential nominee, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, has stated that the only reason many persons are not educated today and are on relief is because they have "low intelligence or low ambitions."

She said Scott has opposed programs setting up arms control research, the national science foundation, and investment in engineering programs for water pollution abatement that would greatly enhance Pennsylvania as a site for new industry.

Look pretty while you work in a coverall that protects you from spots and splashing sauces. Easy-sew, has wide straps, deep pockets.

NEW YORK (AP) — Motors and steels advanced today as the stock market celebrated Chrysler's labor pact. Trading was active early this afternoon.

Wall Street heaved a sigh of relief on news that Chrysler had reached agreement with the United Auto Workers, avoiding the threat of a nationwide strike.

Chrysler was bought heavily. Industrials staged a general advance, putting them further into new high ground.

By midsession, however, the atmosphere began to calm and traders began to take some profits.

Chrysler's best gain of more than a point was trimmed back to a point. Major steelmakers remained generally higher, along with chemicals, rails building materials, retail and rubbers. But the pattern was mixed for tobacco, aerospace stocks, oils and utilities.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .9 at 320.0 with industrials up 1.60, rails up .5 and utilities off .1. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was 3.75 above the historic closing high reached Tuesday, putting the average at 855.66.

Volume was running some 400,000 shares above Tuesday's. Chrysler was "all over the tape" following the news from the bargaining table, released minutes before the strike deadline.

General Motors rose nearly a point, paring the gain to a fraction. GM and the union extended their current labor contract, scheduled to expire tonight. Ford and American Motors added fractions.

Polaroid held a gain exceeding 2. Control Data slipped nearly a point.

The Autobody Repair Company, located at the corner of Park St. and Pennsylvania Ave. E., has been turned over to its new owners, Frank Mason, Wallace Johnson, and John Rambish.

SAMPSON GETS AWARD

DENVER (AP) — Emory Sampson of Calgary, Alta., has received the Barry Sharp Memorial Award given yearly to a University of Denver hockey player on the basis of good sportsmanship and value to the team. Sharp was a Denver player who died several years ago of injuries suffered in an accident on the ice.

keeper for the company back in 1940. He manages the office and makes estimates on the cost to repair the damages to dented automobiles. He has a married daughter and a son who is in the Air Force at March Air Force Base, Riverside, Calif.

Rambish, who is the sheet metal foreman, has a son in the Army stationed in Germany, and a daughter at home.

JOHNSON schedules the work for the repair shop, and is in charge of the parts department. He and Rambish joined the firm shortly after World War II and learned their trade on the job.

The company was started in 1930 by George Horsfield on the same site that it now occupies. The building was smaller then — the cinderblock section was added later.

MOST OF the work at Autobody is body and frame repair, but occasionally they are asked to do something a little out of the usual line, such as welding metal furniture or even repairing an artificial limb.

No major changes are scheduled at Autobody, Mason says.

NEW YORK (AP) — Solving the traveling salesman problem or designing comfortable bras — these and a lot of other sticklers can be handled quickly by a new kind of "Algorithm."

An algorithm is a way of calculating by means of nine figures and zero. A professor at the Krannert Graduate School of Industrial Administration, Purdue University, has developed a new algorithm to be used in conjunction with modern computers. He says the technique lets businessmen select almost instantly the best solution from up to billions of possible combinations.

With a traveling salesman, one of management's problems is to decide on the best route a salesman should take to cover far-flung stops, most efficiently and most economically. The business conditions under which such trips are made change often. The aim remains the same — make the most profit for his company.

Dr. Stanley J. Reiter, a Purdue research scientist, calls his computer-based program discrete — distinct — optimizing. It selects in minutes the best of many solutions, making the company management happy, and presumably the salesman, too.

Some garment makers also are using computers to come up with the most comfortable bras. In effect, the machine does the fitting from the mass of possible variations, both of the human body and the outer garments, fed into it.

The Krannert system, called quantitative management research, also is applied to scheduling a large job shop, where say five machines and five operations could involve as many as 25 billion sequences in handling a day's or a week's work.

Top management uses many hours of skull practice in setting up a research and development budget or a capital expenditure program. What it wants to know, if possible, is whether the millions of dollars involved will pay off.

Reiter says that his system by using forecasts of costs, market demand, plant site conditions for transportation and labor, and age and population trends in accessible markets, can give management a quick answer on the most likely result of any plan, and the most profitable of many choices.
